QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

Ananias Fraer.

ANANIAS FRAER was born in slavery about the year 1832, in the vicinity of Jackson, East Feliciana Parish, Louisiana. At an early age he gave his heart to God, and from his youth he maintained a uniform Christian character. While employed as janitor at Centenary College, Jackson, through the friendliness of the students, he was taught to read and write. Soon after he commenced preaching to his fellow-bondmen, so far as he was permitted, and exerted a strong influence among them. On the breaking out of the war his owner removed with him to Texas, where he continued to preach and labor for the good of souls. On the termination of the war, when "liberty was proclaimed to the captives throughout the land," he returned to his native place to live and labor with those who knew and loved him best. Almost immediately on the organization of our Mission Conference he sought the nearest stationed preacher, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was employed as a supply, and in 1868 was admitted on trial, and appointed to Jackson, where he was continued the following year. In 1870 he was admitted into full connection, and for the third year was returned to Jackson; but in one short week after the adjournment of Conference he ceased to labor, and entered into "the rest that remaineth for the people of God."

On his death-bed he said to his weeping wife, "O, Fanny, weep not for me, I am going home; I shall soon be with Jesus, and you will not be long behind me. We will soon be together again." And when his youngest child, a son, born during his illness, was brought to him that he might look upon him for the first and last time, he blessed him in the name of the Lord, and charged his wife to raise him for God—that he, too, might meet them in heaven. To all his friends he talked of "Jesus and the resurrection" as long as he could articulate, and thus sweetly fell asleep in Jesus January 4, 1871.

Brother Fraer was a good preacher and a sound Methodist. In many respects his place will be hard to fill. But the Lord hath taken him away. "Blessed be the name of the Lord!"

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

T. Willard Lewis,* Geo. Newcomb, John Hamilton—3.

1. GEORGE NEWCOMB died of yellow fever in Beaufort, S. C., October 12, 1871. He was born in Quincy, Mass., November 8, 1814. Upon attaining manhood he devoted himself to teaching, which vocation he followed for many years. In 1856 he was licensed as a Local Preacher. In 1864, impelled by a sense of duty, he went to Beaufort, S. C., to labor among the Freedmen as superintendent of schools. In 1867 he united with the South Carolina Conference, and was appointed to Beaufort Circuit, where he remained three years. While laboring there he organized several societies on the Combahee River and Ladies' Island. At our last annual Conference he was made Presiding Elder, and assigned to St. John's District, Florida. He knew from experience what privations and hardships mean; but, bold in the strength of God, he braved storms of opposition, surmounted difficulties, and, in the pine lands and river bottoms, as well as in the crowded streets of the busy town, his voice was heard heralding forth the words of truth and soberness. Equally devoid of the prejudice of color and the bigotry of politics, he occupied a large place in the hearts of those who knew him. During last summer, by the advice of his physician, he went North for the benefit of his health. He returned to Beaufort about the first of October, preached once, and fell a victim to the fearful fever then so prevalent. As he neared death his faith failed not. "My work is done," said he; "I am going home to heaven." The good Lord help all his brethren of the ministry and membership to follow him as he followed Christ!

* Obituary not received.

2. JOHN HAMILTON died November 11, 1871, in Charleston, S. C., aged 45. At the age of twenty he was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He at once devoted all his powers to God's service. Naturally zealous and energetic, he ran all risks, dared all consequences, and shunned no sacrifice if he might but win souls to Christ. He was early made Class-leader, from which position he graduated into the regular traveling ministry. His field of pastoral labor lay principally in the neighboring islands, and he performed that labor willingly and well. His heart yearned for his poor perishing brethren, destitute of the knowledge of that Gospel which had indeed been "good news" to his soul. Laboring in a malarious region, and exposed to heat and rain, he at last contracted fever, which laid the germ of other disorders, resulting finally in his death. During his illness he was "in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart and be with Christ." "I am on the rock," were his last words, and he sweetly passed from time to the everlasting home of the blessed. His death is a great bereavement to his flock, and an equal loss to the Conference.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

C. B. Parsons.

CHARLES BOOTH PARSONS was born in Enfield, Conn., July 23, 1805, and died at his residence in Louisville, Ky., December 8, 1871. His parents were Presbyterians. At the age of fifteen he started in life for himself. While serving as a store-boy in New York city he was induced to join a Thespian club, and there developed such histrionic talent that he soon after took to the stage. His success in his new vocation was so marked that he soon stood in its front rank, and at one time owned and managed four theaters in different cities. Strange to say, his profession did not obliterate his sense of moral obligation. He was regular in his attendance at the house of God, temperate in his habits, and estimable in social life. Those who were not in sympathy with his calling highly respected him as a gentleman.

God, by a marked chain of providences, drew our brother to seek the great salvation. The perusal of Bishop Gleig's "History of the Bible," which he had accidentally purchased at a bookstall, set him to thinking. The death of a dear relative deepened his convictions; and the prayer of a Presbyterian clergyman for him, on an occasion when he was the only non-communicant present, decided his purpose to seek the Lord. The very evening of the Sabbath on which this prayer was offered, while wrestling with God alone in the chamber of his hotel, he found peace in believing. It does not appear, however, that he left the stage at this time, which will, partially at least, explain why he subsequently professed conversion at one of Maffitt's revival meetings in Louisville. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1839, and in the fall of that year was licensed to preach. He seems to have surrendered his old profession reluctantly—which was not remarkable in a man who had been so successful in it for fifteen years; and, subsequent to his connection with the Church, he returned to it for a short time. But the experiment seems to have satisfied him that he must either surrender the stage or religion—for he returned to the Church, and ever afterward lifted his pen and voice against theatrical amusements.

Brother Parsons now became an earnest minister of Jesus Christ, bringing those admirable powers, which had so often electrified theater-going audiences, to bear with marked effect upon his pulpit ministrations. His first appointment was Middletown Circuit, Kentucky Conference, where a gracious revival crowned the labors of himself and colleague. His success in the ministry was as marked and rapid as it had been upon the stage. He successively filled stations in Louisville, Cincinnati, Frankfort, and St. Louis. He was one of the commissioners appointed by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to adjust the property question between it and the Methodist Episcopal Church, and he was several times honored by his brethren with a seat in the General Conference.

Though sometimes unsettled in his ecclesiastical views, Brother Parsons never wavered from his faith in Christ. If he was ever in doubt on any subject he was always open to conviction, and, when convinced, manly enough to say so. During the late war he was an uncompromising Union man, and toward its close he returned to the bosom of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which he remained a devoted member and minister till called away from earth. At the session of the Kentucky Conference held at Newport March, 1868, he exchanged the laborious duties of the presiding eldership for the unpretending relation of supernumerary, hoping thereby, doubtless, to recruit his already failing strength. In this he was disappointed. In a few months he was prostrated by partial paralysis. He rallied again, however, sufficiently to stand once more in the sacred desk, preaching his last sermon to a crowded house at the Market-street Methodist Episcopal Church, Louisville, November 28, 1869. This effort is said to have been one of his best, both as to matter and delivery. Shortly afterward he was again prostrated, and from henceforth his became the sphere of suffering rather than of action. Though at times greatly perplexed on some of the religious topics of the day, he constantly asserted his faith in the blood of Christ alone for salvation. He was much at home on the subject of experimental religion, occasionally giving incidents in his own history which showed that he knew whereof he affirmed. He ever felt a deep interest in the persons with whom he had been associated as an actor, and was wont to refer with deep emotion to such of them as he had been instrumental in leading to Christ.

Few men could have so commanded the popular ear to his ministry for thirty years as did Dr. Parsons. In the city of Louisville, where he had lived longest and was best known, the announcement for him to preach was at any time the signal for the gathering of a crowd. His end was peace. On the Sabbath before his decease he was in a very happy frame of mind, asserting unequivocally the triumph of his faith in Christ, and exclaiming at one time, "O, if I had a trumpet-voice that would encompass the universe, I would say, 'Glory to God!'"

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

Samuel V. Blake, Job W. Lambeth, William Monroe, Alfred Griffith, Wm. Hamilton, J. L. Bromwell—6.

1. SAMUEL VINTON BLAKE was born in Easton, Talbot County, Md., January 15, 1814. He was converted in youth, was licensed to exhort in 1833, and to preach in 1834. In 1835 he was received as a probationer in the Baltimore Conference, and stationed on the Alleghany Circuit. His subsequent appointments were Bedford, West Branch Mission, Clearfield Circuit, Williamsburg Circuit, Bellefonte, West Baltimore Station, Baltimore Circuit, Fayette-street, Alexandria; Emory, Lewistown, Great Falls Circuit, Bedford Station, Rockingham District. He was afterward stationed at Winchester; Wesley Chapel, Baltimore; Columbia-street, Baltimore; West River; South Baltimore and Baltimore Districts; North Baltimore Station. He was a member of the General Conference in 1856 and 1868. On Sunday, April 9, 1871, while preaching in Jefferson-street Church, he was prostrated by disease, and with difficulty reached his home. With medical aid he seemed for a time to improve, but after the lapse of two weeks a new type of disease developed itself, which terminated fatally May 9.

What Dr. Slicer said of Brother Blake at his funeral services is emphatically true: "He had in his character the elements of sincerity, energy, and industry, and he made his mark strongly upon every community in which he labored." Early on the morning of the day on which he died a friend said to him, "You are going to see the King in his beauty." He replied with a pleasant smile, "Yes, Sister Hall, is not that glorious?" She then said, "You have fought a good fight." Here he took up the words, "and have kept the faith—have kept the faith." Brother D. Creamer asked him if the Gospel, which he had been preaching for so many years to others, was his support in his great affliction? He promptly replied in his usual positive manner, "Yes, that's where I have been standing; I stand there now, sure and steadfast." On the day of his death Dr. Deale said to him, "Brother Blake, do you find Jesus very precious to you today?" He answered with measured syllables, and in a voice failing in death, "Yes, unspeakably precious." His lips moved for the last time in the utterance of the word "Victory," and his liberated soul ascended to its Maker and its God.

Brother Blake was a genuine Christian, and left, as a precious example to his kindred and friends, the best boon that any one can confer upon humanity when summoned away by death—a reputation as a God-fearing, a God-loving, and a God-serving man.

2. JOB W. LAMBETH was born in Baltimore, Md., August 6, 1817. He was the nephew of Rev. Job Guest, of precious memory. Converted in early life, he was attracted to the ministry of Jesus, and entered the Baltimore Conference in the spring of 1842. He served the Church effectively for nineteen years. In 1846 his health failed, and he was supernumerary five years. He resumed his active ministry in 1852, and continued effective until 1867, from which time until his death he was supernumerary, suffering impaired health for many years. The last six months of his life he was confined to his house. The prospect of death awakened but one solicitude—provision for his wife and four children. God was gracious to his servant. Divine support was bestowed. The promised care of his dear ones by the Father of the fatherless, and the assurance of a heavenly home for himself, hushed his anxieties and strengthened his faith. He died in great peace August 19, 1871.

From Bottetourt, Christiansburgh, Liberty, Hereford, Stafford, Alleghany, St. Mary's, Calvert, Severn, and the colored congregations which he so faithfully served, there will come to judgment many who will be bright stars in the crown of his rejoicing.

3. WILLIAM MONROE died at his home in Boonsborough, Washington County, Md., May 29, 1871. He was born in Alleghany County, Md., September 8, 1783, and therefore was verging on eighty-eight when he died. In his twenty-second year he received the clear, unmistakable evidence that his sins were forgiven through the blood of the Lamb, and thenceforward he constantly rejoiced in the witness of the Spirit. In 1809 he was licensed to preach, and in 1810 was admitted on trial in the Baltimore Conference with eleven others, of whom were John Davis, Tobias Reiley, and James Stevens, whose sacred memories still linger in the Church, of which class he was the last survivor. He was ordained Deacon by Bishop M'Kendree, and Elder by Bishop Asbury. His appointments were Lyttleton Circuit, Huntingdon Circuit, Greenville Circuit, Randolph Circuit, Georgetown, D. C., Redstone Circuit, East Wheeling, Monongahela, Rockingham Circuit, Va.; Alleghany, Va.; Ebenezer, Washington, D. C.; Chambersburgh; Winchester, Va.; Stafford, Va.; Rockingham, Va.; Staunton, Va.; Berkeley, Va.; Jefferson; Berkeley, Va.; South Branch; Hillsborough. After this for two years, 1837 and 1838, he was supernumerary. In 1839-40 he was stationed at Boonsborough, and in 1841 at Codorus Mission. In 1842 he was again supernumerary; in 1843-44, Mercersburgh; and in 1845, Greencastle. This year closed his active service, and in 1846 he asked for and obtained a superannuated relation, which he sustained until removed to the Church triumphant. His active ministry extended over a period of thirty-three years, during which time he traveled many thousands of miles, and upon many of the most laborious circuits known to the ministry of the old Baltimore Conference. Two of his earlier circuits embraced nearly the entire area of the modern Central Pennsylvania Conference, and two others together included a large portion of the Pittsburgh Conference. His infirmities increased rapidly in his old age. At the last Conference session he attended he said, "My sight has left me, my hearing is very dull, and my articulation is fast failing; all is dark to my sight, and with great difficulty I can be made to hear. I sit, and walk about a little—and all that is left me is to think, think, think!—none but God with whom to exchange thoughts! yet my hope and trust is in the Lord, and though my flesh and my heart fail, yet God is the strength of my heart and my portion forever." With this firm trust in God, through his Son Jesus Christ, he lived, and in it he died. On the 29th of May, 1871, his soul, in great peace and quiet, as the earthly house of his tabernacle dissolved, entered the building of God, "a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." Thus, after an eventful period of eighty and eight years, passed away one of the fathers, whose great moral dignity, true Christian virtues, uniform piety, clear knowledge of Divine things, faithful preaching of the word, and true friendship for Methodism, has not only endeared him to the whole Church and the community in which he lived, but has shown a bright example of divine grace, and exhibited a Christian and ministerial life worthy of imitation.

4. ALFRED GRIFFITH began his ministry in the heroic age of our Church. Among his early associates were Stephen Geo. Roszel, John Emory, James Smith, Asa Shinn, Beverly Waugh, John Davis, and Christopher Frye. The last-named was his first colleague, and Dr. Thomas E. Bond was his most intimate friend. All have passed away. And of those who sat at his feet, Robert Emory, John A. Collins, Bernard H. Nadal, and Thos. Sewall have preceded him to heaven. When the venerable man of God drew up his chariot at the eternal gates many and cordial must have been the greetings of those who had passed on before.

Brother Griffith was born in Montgomery County, Md., March 16, 1783, and was born of God in 1801. He was admitted to the Baltimore Conference in 1806. "I entered the itinerant ranks," said he in 1844, "an inexperienced boy, and I have spent the vigor of my youth, and perhaps the prime of my riper years, in earnest, honest, hearty endeavors to promote the best interests of the Methodist Episcopal Church." His ministry began amid the wilds of the north branch of the Susquehanna. Laborious indeed, in those days, was the "office and work of the ministry." One year was the limit, by usage, of ministerial service on a circuit, and the immense territorial range of a Conference afforded room for marvelous removals.

Brother Griffith's record is an example of this: Berkeley was his second station; then followed Baltimore Circuit, Severn, Calvert, Montgomery, Annapolis in 1813, 1823, and 1850, Fell's Point, City Station, Alexandria, 1816 and 1843, Fairfax, Frederick Circuit, Harford, Carlisle. Here intervened four years of supernumerary relation. Then, in 1832, Liberty, Baltimore District, Carlisle District, North Baltimore District, North Baltimore Station, Georgetown, D. C., Carlisle District, Summerfield, Ryland, Washington. At the close of his pastorate at Ryland he removed, mainly on account of his wife's health, to Alexandria, where, in the family of his only daughter, he remained superannuated to the close of life. From 1806 to 1856, except the supernumerary years at Carlisle, he was effective—forty-six years. Nine years he was supernumerary and ten years superannuated. He was a member of the Baltimore Conference for sixty-five years—two entire generations. His standing among his brethren of the ministry is indicated by the fact that in 1816, when only thirty-three years of age, he was chosen to represent "Old Baltimore" in the General Conference. Seven times afterward he attained the same honorable position, and for a number of years he was secretary of the Baltimore Conference.

In Conference Brother Griffith ranked as a strong debater, although his speeches were not over frequent. He was an exceptionally good listener. In his earlier ministry the pulpit was his forte. His sermons were like heavy artillery—slowly moved to their positions, but overwhelming in their effectiveness. Though he had serious bodily defects, and lacked the graces of elocution, yet he was a true orator. He handled God's truth with the dignity of a royal embassador. When fully roused, his majestic manner gave so much impressiveness to his subject that defects of person and utterance were forgotten.

Alfred Griffith presented two phases of character—often seen in men of strong intellect. He was severe in denunciation of wrong, and impressively grave in the decorum of public life. But he was gentle to children, and among his associates unreserved. His conversational powers were rich. While his body bent under the infirmities of age, his mind retained much of its vigor. But untoward circumstances greatly depressed his spirits. His tenderly-loved wife died, and the bereavement deeply wounded his heart. In 1861 he fell upon the pavement in front of his house, and before he had entirely recovered from the effects of the severe injuries he then received he again fell in his own home, and was so disabled that he could never again go abroad. Body and mind were now greatly enfeebled, but the faith of the old veteran was unmoved. Often in the solitude of his room his voice was heard pleading with God in prayer, and calling up reminiscences of his earlier ministerial work. To the last Conference he sent his parting injunction: "Tell them to preach Christ, the divine Son of God." On the morning of April 14 he had a severe chill, and all that day was confined to his bed; the next day he rose, but, becoming faint, lay down in a deep torpor, from which he only awoke to say to his loving daughter, as he placed his arms around her neck, "Lord, bless my child!" He then calmly fell asleep in Jesus. The body sank under the weight of fourscore and eight years; the spirit entered paradise.

5. William Hamilton was born in 1798 near Greencastle, Pa. His parents were Presbyterians. He was converted in 1816. Soon after his parents, as well as himself, joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Of his early religious experience he said, in his remarks at the last Conference: "My experience as a Christian and my early efforts as a preacher are inseparably blended with the United Brethren in Christ. Bishop Newcomer, the intimate friend of Asbury and the successor of Otterbein, was not only present when I was converted, but while I was upon my knees imploring pardon that venerable man kneeled by my side and directed my thoughts to Christ." Shortly after his conversion he was licensed to preach. He was admitted to the Baltimore Conference in 1818. There remain but four members of this body who were then in the Conference, and no member of his class survives him. His appointments were consecutively: Auckwick, Huntingdon, Winchester Circuit, Baltimore City Station, Foundry, Winchester Circuit, Baltimore City Station, East Baltimore, Baltimore City Station, Carlisle District, Baltimore City Station, Foundry, Georgetown, Winchester Station, North Baltimore, Baltimore City Station, Baltimore Circuit, Potomac District, M'Kendree, Washington; Caroline-street, Baltimore; Baltimore District; M'Kendree, Washington; Union Square, Baltimore; Franklin-street, Baltimore; Ryland, Washington; and then for four years (1868–71) superannuated. He was five years on circuits, twelve on districts, thirty-three on stations, and four years superannuated. He was one of the few men who have effectively served the Church fifty years. He represented the Baltimore Conference in four General Conferences, namely, 1832, 1836, 1848, 1856, and was one of the Delegates appointed by the General Conference of 1856 to visit the Canada Conference in 1857. He seldom engaged in debate. His nature was averse to controversy. Attentive to business and valuable in the Committees, he entered but little into the intricacies of discussion, and shrank from its personalities. Methodist history was a passion with him. He perhaps was more familiar with the history of old Baltimore Conference than any man among us, and it is greatly to be regretted that the account of Baltimore Methodism, prepared by him, was submitted to the examination and use of others, and is missing.

The preaching of William Hamilton need not be elaborately characterized. It was the clear statement of truth, separated from unnecessary adjuncts. He was a man of much sympathy. In the homes of sorrow his voice trembled with tenderness. With moistened eyes and moving words he won the sinner from his sin. These qualities of heart and mind, with his deep religious convictions and his habitual walk with God, made him mighty in prayer. In social life he was a model. He was cautious, dignified, and courteous. He had much of the careful speech and stately bearing of the old preachers without their severity of manner. His hospitality was proverbial. His cheerfulness was like that of a child. Christian song was always a great comfort to him. At family worship, or at work in his flower garden, he often let out the feelings of his heart in happy song. His grandchildren delighted to sit on his knee, or by his side, and hear him sing the hymns of the olden time. Availing himself of the varied society and the opportunities for gathering information of a long life, he had become a man of no inconsiderable culture. He seemed to keep abreast of the literature of the times, reading the new publications and talking freely of the current issues of the press, both secular and religious. It is true, he was not a learned man, but he possessed a very cultivated taste. Books and flowers occupied the leisure not devoted to his friends.

During Brother Hamilton's superannuation he obtained employment fitted to his powers in the Patent Office at Washington. Here and in his pleasant cottage home the last few years of his life were spent. On the morning of February 3, 1872, on his way to business, he slipped in the snow, and friends rushed forward only in time to carry his lifeless body home. His superannuated life—most of it—was happy. Its darkest hour was February 5, 1870, when his excellent wife, who had shared the vicissitudes of his itinerant life, and enjoyed with him the agreeable contrast of his first real home, after a long sickness, died. From that hour he showed the marks of grief and loneliness. But God was with him; and when he came to die, no doubt God took him.

Life's labor done, as sinks the clay,
Light from its load the spirit flies;
While heaven and earth combine to say,
How blest the righteous when he dies.

6. Jacob L. Bromwell was born in Talbot County, Eastern Shore of Maryland, August 1, 1792. He fell asleep in Jesus in Waverly, Morrow County, Ind., March 9, 1871. He was married to Miss Melinda Davis, of Monroe County, Va., in 1822, with whom he lived about five years. October 30, 1828, he was married to Miss Charlotte Bronamer, who is still living, by whom he had two sons and four daughters.

Father Bromwell was converted in early life in Baltimore; was licensed to exhort by Rev. Henry Boehm in 1815, and to preach by Rev. Jacob Gruber in 1816. He was admitted on trial in the Baltimore Conference in 1817, and appointed consecutively to Huntington Circuit, Pendleton Circuit, Greenbrier Circuit, Monroe Circuit, Lancaster Circuit, Berkeley Circuit, Botetourt Circuit. He was taken with an affection of the throat and superannuated in 1826, and held this relation for three years. In 1829 he was made effective, and sent to Greenbrier Circuit. In 1830 he was again superannuated, and sustained this relation until death. He moved to Indiana in the early part of 1831 and settled in Morgan County, where he lived until God took him. When he moved westward the country was in its wilderness state. Here he commenced his labors as he was able, preaching in cabins, log school-houses, and woods as opportunity served, and preaching at funerals all over the range of country where he lived. Here his labors were blessed, and he became the founder of a number of societies. Although superannuated for forty years, he did good service for the Church in the country where he resided. His health was uniformly good, with the exception of the throat disease which disabled him from regular work. His last illness—pneumonia—was short, but severe. He was taken ill Saturday morning and died the following Thursday night. At times he was rational; but he had become so very hard of hearing that it was very difficult to talk with him. All was clear, however, and to one of his sons-in-law he said that he was glad there was a country ahead that knew no pain, and that he was not far from it. He died while his Conference was in session in Baltimore City.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

A. A. Ewing.

AMOS A. EWING was born in Cecil County, Md., in 1842. His parents were Presbyterians; he, however, obtained the pardon of his sins at a Methodist altar, and, having connected himself with that branch of the Church of Christ, ever afterward zealously supported its "denominational peculiarities." He soon felt drawn to the work of the ministry. He entered the Philadelphia Conference in 1867, having previously been employed as a "supply" by Rev. J. Cunningham, Presiding Elder of Wilmington District. His appointments were Salisbury, Lincoln, Lewes, and Queenstown Circuits. In the fall of 1870 he was compelled by increasing bodily infirmities to relinquish his work. He returned to his home in Cecil County—but the respite came too late. His health continued to decline rapidly until his death. His life was a beautiful illustration of the power of divine grace. He died in great peace, clearly asserting, in joyous utterances, his complete triumph over his latest foe. Not a shadow of a doubt can ever cross the mind of any that knew Brother Ewing that he now enjoys that "rest that remaineth for the people of God."

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

J. Loudenslager, L. J. Rhoads—2.

1. JACOB LOUDENSLAGER was born in Gloucester County, N. J., January 30, 1793, and died in Paulsborough, October 2, 1871, in his seventy-ninth year. He was awakened to a deep conviction of sin and his lost condition by reading a tract, published by the American Tract Society, called "The Happy Family." At the time this tract came into his hand he was keeping a public house, but soon gave up the business, and sought and found salvation by faith in Jesus Christ. After his conversion he united with the Protestant Episcopal Church, and remained a faithful member of the same for five years, when his zeal for holding prayer-meetings in private houses attracted the attention of the Church authorities, who considered it out of order according to their forms and usages.

About this time Rev. Solomon Sharp, of precious memory, came preaching the Gospel in the neighborhood, and hearing of a young man who had too much zeal for the Church to which he belonged, made haste to call and see him. The interview took place on the public highway, and there and then Jacob Loudenslager was taken on probation in the Methodist Episcopal Church, and duly authorized to hold prayer-meetings and exercise his gifts. In 1831 he was called out by the Presiding Elder, and the following year received on trial in the Philadelphia Conference and sent to Gloucester Circuit, N. J. His subsequent appointments were Cape May Circuit, Bargaintown Circuit, Middletown Point, Salem Circuit, Cumberland Circuit, Cedarville and Fairton, Cape May Circuit again, Bargaintown Circuit again, Moorestown Circuit, Medford, Glassborough, Cedarville, Allowaystown, Bridgeport. In 1858 he took a supernumerary relation on account of failing health, and finally became superannuated, so that he was nearly fourteen years out of the regular work. But he was never idle. His death was very sudden. At the supper table, surrounded by his family, he fell unconscious to the floor. He revived sufficiently to give intelligent directions in regard to his funeral, but sank again into an insensible condition, and the same night departed to be with Jesus.

Father Loudenslager was an earnest preacher and a strict disciplinarian. He loved the doctrines and usages of our Church, and seemed to have for his motto, "Warning every man," that he might be found blameless at his Master's coming. His labors were abundant, and not in vain.

2. L. J. Rhoads was born in Montgomery County, Pa., July 10, 1808, and died in Washington, South River, N. J., December 20, 1871. His father, though not a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was a Methodist in principle. His mother died a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was converted in the old St. John's Church, Philadelphia, under the ministry of Rev. Joseph Lybrand. He immediately commenced to work for God. In 1846 Rev. Levi Scott (now Bishop) gave him a license as a Local Preacher. In 1853 he was received on trial in this Conference, from which time until the spring of 1868 he continued to labor with constant usefulness and great acceptability, serving two years on each charge or circuit, having revivals on almost every charge, and on some very special displays of divine power.

At Tuckerton, while engaged in extra services, he put the question to two or three members of the Church, "Do you believe God will show forth his power?" and, having received an affirmative answer, he told the people to "Come out to-morrow night, and God will manifest his power." The hour came, the congregation came together, and when the sermon was half through the power of God came down and sinners cried for mercy all through the congregation, and a gracious revival followed. While at Mauricetown he attended the Seville Camp-meeting, where the doctrine of entire sanctification was preached. He sought and found this pearl of great price, and, returning home full of fire, love, and faith, a precious revival commenced in which many members were sanctified and many sinners converted to God. On Tom's River charge he had five appointments. In his zeal he aimed to meet all the demands of the charge, and held four or five extra meetings. The revival flame spread over most of the charge, sanctifying members and converting sinners, and three new Churches were organized; but the toils were too great for his strength.

At the Conference held in Lambertville Brother Rhoads received his appointment to Washington, South River. His failing strength allowed him to get moved and preach one Sabbath, when he was prostrated with fever. He rallied, however, and preached several Sabbaths near the close of the Conference year, and from that time until last June was able to preach occasionally. His mind and body continued to fail until the middle of September, at which time reason seemed to have lost her throne, he at times being unable to recognize the members of his own family—yet he would frequently conduct family worship with great accuracy, and in conversation would often speak of the Saviour and heaven. We give a few of his last sayings: "What raptures!" "I have bread to eat ye know not of;" "I shall never die;" "Angel voices in the distance." "Do you hear them?" was asked. "Yes," he answered; "O glory, halleluia!" On the afternoon of the 20th of December he passed away, without a sigh or groan, from the field of toil and pain to rest and home in heaven.

Brother Rhoads was a man of more than ordinary power of mind, and more than ordinary love for God. He was very joyous, zealous, and laborious. In life he honored his Maker; on the last great day he will be one of those who, with ecstacy, will listen to the Master's words: "Well done!"

J. W. Arthur, S. Patterson—2.

1. JOHN W. ARTHUR was born near Radnor, Delaware County, Pa., May 4, 1818. His parents were worthy members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and trained up their children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Early religious instruction, thus secured to our brother, was not lost on him. He was a conscious subject of divine impressions, even in his childhood, and when a youth of sixteen he earnestly sought and obtained of his heavenly Father the forgiveness of his sins. He joined the Church of his parents, and continued so diligent in all his duties, so punctual and fervent in the use of all the means of grace, that he became one of the most useful members of the Church. His mind was soon impressed with the subject of preaching. He felt a strong persuasion that it was his duty to give himself to the work of the ministry, but a sense of his unworthiness, limited attainments, and the fearful responsibility of the call caused him to shrink from the high and responsible trust. But the great Head of the Church who had called him did not allow him to shake off his convictions of duty. He found a wise and safe counselor in Rev. William Cooper, who traveled Radnor Circuit in 1836–37. Profiting by the advice given he obeyed God and the voice of the Church, and said in his heart, and gave witness in his after life, "Here am I; send me." During these years he was licensed, first to exhort, and then to preach. In 1840 he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference, and appointed to Pottsville and Minersville Circuit. In 1841–42 he was associated with Rev. Dr. Cooper on Dauphin Circuit. These were years of great prosperity and glorious revivals of religion all over the circuit. He often referred to the pleasure and profit of those days, when his heart was cheered with the favor of God and the love of the people.

Brother Arthur filled the subsequent appointments: Susquehanna Mission, Attleborough, Chester, Pottstown, North East, New Market-street, Philadelphia; Western Church, Philadelphia; Port Carbon; Chester; Broad-street, Philadelphia; Milestown; Union, Wilmington; Oak-street, Norristown; Siloam, Philadelphia; South City Mission, Philadelphia. At the session of the Conference for 1868 he received his appointment to Millersburgh, Pa., but owing to failing health was unable to go. From this period till the close of life he remained on the superannuated list. After a protracted sickness of several months he quietly fell asleep in Jesus on Saturday, October 21, 1871, in his fifty-fourth year. He leaves a widow and seven children to the sympathy and kindness of the Church.

Our departed brother was loved and honored by us all. As a man, he was frank, confiding, generous, and loving. As a Christian, conscientious, sincere, and uniform in his experience. As a preacher, he was bold and uncompromising in declaring the whole counsel of God. Blessed with a good mind, ready utterance, a well-developed physical frame, and untiring energy and zeal, he was well qualified to do the work of a Methodist traveling preacher. He rests from his labors and his works do follow him. How much he has gained! How sweet to all the blessed conviction that he is "present with the Lord!" He sees no more "through a glass darkly," but with open face beholding the glory of the Lord. We shall meet our departed brother again "beyond the tempest and the tossing," at home with Jesus, with

"No shade of grief or sadness,
In the heights beyond, where echoes not farewell."

2. STEARNS PATTERSON was born in Dunstable, now called Nashua, N. H., January 2, 1813, and died in Stroud Township, Monroe County, Pa., May 19, 1871, in the fifty-ninth year of his age. In 1826 the Congregational Church in the town of Dunbarton, N. H., where his family then resided, was visited with a gracious revival of religion, the boy Stearns had his attention arrested, and became deeply concerned for his salvation. On the 22d of September, while at work in his father's field, he was happily converted to God, and from that day gave proof that the work was genuine. Shortly afterward he connected himself with the Congregational Church. In 1829 he entered the Academy at Hopkintown, and a few years later he entered Yale College, but his health failing he was compelled to relinquish his studies and engage in other pursuits. From 1837 to 1840 he filled a clerkship in the city of New York. In November, 1840, he went to Maryland and engaged in teaching. While there he became hopeful that his long cherished desire to enter the ministry would be gratified, but how he knew not. The Methodists had preaching on the island only once in two weeks; the Episcopal Church was small, and its usages were different from any thing to which he had been accustomed. In August, 1841, Rev. Enos R. Williams held a camp-meeting on Kent Island. Brother Patterson attended all the preaching services, but could not conceal his prejudices against the other exercises, and spoke of the meeting as "a confusion and cause of disgust to him instead of a means of grace." Under date of September 9, 1841, his journal reads, "I find myself adopting Methodist views of some doctrines; indeed, I shall not be surprised to find myself according well with them in most things, though I think never in some few particulars." The leaven, however, continued to work, and on the 20th of March, 1842, he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church on Kent Island. In August of the same year he removed to St. Michaels, Talbot County, Maryland, and took charge of a school. On December 7, 1843, he was licensed to exhort, and on the 15th of February, 1844, he was licensed to preach, and recommended to the Philadelphia Conference. He was admitted in 1844 and appointed to Strasburgh. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Brandywine, Cecil, two years supernumerary, Grove, Mount Zion, Manayunk, Phoenixville, Marietta, six years Professor in Wesleyan Female College in Wilmington, Del., then to Merion Square, and afterward to Radnor and Bethesda. In 1866 he was granted the relation of superannuate, and so continued until called to his rest on high.

Brother Patterson afforded an example of the union of scholarly attainments with the meekness and simplicity of a child. His character as a man endeared him to all of his associates, and exemplified the charity that thinketh no evil. As a preacher, he was eminently practical, aiming only at usefulness. As a Christian, his piety was deep and uniform. His prominent trait was an abiding confidence in God, and faith in him as one who hears and answers prayer. It was his practice to lay his temporal wants before God, and many and direct were the answers to prayer received by him. His death affords an illustration how God sometimes answers prayer in an unlooked-for manner. Obligations were maturing, and he was not prepared to meet them. He laid his case before God. He believed relief would come, but he knew not how. The last entry in his journal, made twelve days before his death, expresses his patient faith: "The text used by Brother M'Connell was 'Lord, what wilt thou have me to do?' In application of it I have several times asked the question, and the answer seems to be, Go on patiently and resignedly where and as you are; God sees that is best for you at present." Relief came. While in the field in temporary charge of a team attached to a plow, he stooped to adjust part of the gearing which had become entangled, and received a kick from one of the horses which produced instant death. With his death came means to meet his obligations. All he had asked for was given, and heaven besides. It seems a strange coincidence that in the open field he was converted, and from the open field lifted to glory.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

John L. Irwin.

JOHN L. IRWIN was born in Huntington, Pa., January 29, 1812, and died in Fairmont, West Va., April 26, 1871, aged fifty-nine. When about eighten years of age he was powerfully converted, and united with the Church under the ministry of Rev. Jas. G. Sansom. Feeling that a dispensation of the Gospel had been committed to him, he at once entered upon such a course of reading as would best fit him for the work of the ministry, which he entered before he was twenty years of age. He was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1831 and appointed to Somerset Circuit. In 1834 he was transferred to Missouri Conference, where he remained for four busy years, spending part of the time as missionary among the Creek Nation. In 1839 he was transferred back to the Pittsburgh Conference, in connection with which he spent twenty-four years on circuits and stations, six in district work, three in the United States army, and five as Bible Agent for the State of West Virginia. In all these relations his firm integrity, sound judgment, and solid piety won the confidence of all who knew him. He was self-reliant, prompt, and energetic. His pulpit efforts were of a highly respectable character, and above mediocrity. His conversion and call to the ministry were clear. "My conversion was bright as a star," he wrote; and again, "My call to the ministry was as clear to my mind as though I had seen Jesus Christ let down the Bible from the sky, and heard him say to me, 'Preach the word.'"

"Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace." The "end" of Brother Irwin was more: his death was a holy triumph. "Forty years ago I was converted," said he to a friend during his last illness, "and I have been advancing higher ever since. Whatever I have done, and however feeble my labor has been, I can always say,

"'It means thy praise, however poor;
An angel's song could do no more.'"

When informed of the near approach of death he replied, "Let it come! There is not a cloud between me and the future. My paradise is certain." At another time he said, "I am not afraid; the Lord God will wipe all tears from off all eyes." Again, "The golden bowl is breaking; but as for me, I shall soon be in the regions beyond the sky, where I shall live and shine and sing forever." His dying message to his brethren of the Conference was characteristic: "Be harmonious working men; be harmonious."

JAMES HENDERSON was born on August 6, 1817, in Ohio County, W. Va. During the twenty-nine years of his ministry he filled successively the following appointments: Kittanning, East Liberty, Johnstown, Coshocton, Cadiz, Newport, M'Connellsville, St. Clairsville, Washington, Pa., M'Connellsville District, Barnesville, Woodsfield, Cambridge, Cambridge District, Wellsville, New Brighton, and Brownsville. As a minister, he acted not according to his "own will, but as a son in the Gospel," being faithful, "vigilant, sober;" a wholesome example of believers in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity; in doctrine showing uncorruptness; gravity, sincerity, gentleness, and kindness were very prominent traits of his character. Twice he was chosen to represent his brethren in General Conference, namely, in 1856 and 1864. On the Sabbath preceding his death, while visiting his relatives near M'Connellsville, Ohio, he preached with his usual vigor. On his journey homeward he was suddenly prostrated in Zanesville on September 14, 1871. He lingered only a few hours. The last words he was heard to utter were "Lord Jesus." He ceased, we may say, "at once to work and live."

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

C. A. Lippincott, B. F. Simpson, A. Cookman, G. O. Carmichael.

1. CALEB ATMORE LIPPINCOTT was the son of William and Hepzibah Lippincott. He was born July 26, 1803, in Pemberton Township, Burlington County, N. J. His parents were of Quaker descent. He grew up a moral youth, but careless about his eternal interests. Full of animal spirits, fond of the various "sports" common to his neighborhood, and endowed with an active mind in a vigorous body, he became leader of a large circle of kindred spirits. He was awakened and clearly converted among the Methodists in 1825, under the ministry of the late Rev. Thomas Neall, then preacher in charge of the New Mills (now Pemberton) Circuit. With some "boon companions" he was attending a revival meeting for "sport," when, being deeply and suddenly convicted of sin, he arose before his astonished companions, and took his place at the altar as a penitent. The next day he was powerfully converted, and immediately, and with surpassing energy, he began to

"Tell to sinners round
What a dear Saviour he had found."

The Church appreciated and nourished his devotion and talents. He was soon employed in various ways, commencing circuit work in 1829, and being admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference in 1830. His appointments were Tuckerton Circuit, Warren Circuit, Newton, Frankford, Germantown, Philadelphia Circuit, and Asbury, (West Philadelphia.) He was then (1842) transferred to New Jersey Conference and appointed consecutively to Birmingham Mission, Columbus Circuit, Northampton, Flemington, Bordentown, Morristown, Flanders, Rahway District, Stanhope, Hackettstown, Cross-street, Paterson, Union-street, Newark, Tract Agent, Hurdtown, Hope, Berkshire, as supernumerary, Hurdtown and Longwood, Chester and Denville, from which place the Lord called him to mansions on high. He died June 17, 1871. He left his home at Succasunna in the morning apparently in his usual good health, and in passing through Dover he called on a ministerial friend and conversed on matters pertaining to the interests of the Church, declaring his determination to die in the harness. He proceeded to Denville to fill his Sabbath appointment, and called on a number of families in his charge, and in the evening held a meeting of special spiritual interest; after which he went to the house of his friend, David Meneagh, to stay during the night. He had just retired to his room when he was seized with a fit of coughing, which in a few moments became so alarming that he called in his host. Remedies were applied, but to no effect. Realizing his condition, he said, "I must die," and seating himself in a chair, exclaimed, "Lord Jesus, take care of me," and expired.

He was a man of remarkable powers of mind. His talents were of a very high order. He was a natural orator, and by practice he acquired the complete mastery of his voice. His mind was full of imagery, his illustrations original and pertinent, and his powers of description remarkable. His conversation, too, sparkled with wit, and overflowed with humor, making him a most agreeable companion. He was pre-eminently a revivalist. On the circuit where he began his itinerant labors some seven hundred souls owned him as the instrument of their salvation; and on his second (where to-day his name is as familiar as any present pastor, and where many of the strong men in that section of the Church remember him as their spiritual father) some sixteen hundred probationers proclaimed his success as a chosen herald of the cross. "But the time would fail to tell of" his success at Frankford, and Germantown, and Philadelphia, and Bordentown, and many other places favored with his ministry; where happy hundreds were won to Christ by his heaven-sanctioned labors. He began his ministerial life amid the flame of revival, and so he was permitted to end it. The Church at Denville, in the service of which he "ceased at once to work and live," was being blessed with a work of grace, which at the time of his death had numbered eighty souls gathered to the fold of Christ. He "died at his post," with the words of sweetest and simplest trust upon his lips, "Lord Jesus, take care of me."

Our departed brother was twice married. January 30, 1834, he was married to Miss Elizabeth H. Corwin, a lady whose piety and practical common-sense made her a worthy companion for him in his itinerant life. She died in great peace in the spring of 1855. He was married September 9, 1857, to Miss Mary Louisa Mann, who now mourns her great loss—a lady of exceptionally fine mind and culture, who lovingly fulfilled during the last fifteen years of his life the duties of a "helpmeet" indeed.

2. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN SIMPSON was born at York, Me., Dec. 30, 1835, and died at the residence of his father-in-law, at Hanover, N. J., July 12, 1871. He entered the Wesleyan Academy at Wilbraham, Mass., in 1853. While there he was awakened, gave himself to God, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in that place. Here he was universally beloved. Of strict integrity, exalted Christian character, and pleasing address, he exerted a powerful influence for good. He was constant and zealous in the performance of his religious duties. In 1858 Brother Simpson came to Rahway, N. J., to take charge of the academy at that place. Here, as ever, earnest and conscientious, he was so faithful to his duties of instructor as to win the highest commendations from all his patrons. He connected himself at once with the First Methodist Episcopal Church, and became an active worker. He exerted an influence felt by all, and was greatly esteemed by all. He received an exhorter's license in 1859. In his first attempt before a public congregation he spoke from the words, "Take heed, therefore, how ye hear." Great interest was felt by all the hearers; many wept. From this hour, Brother Simpson felt he must preach the Gospel. With this end in view, he went to the Biblical Institute, at Concord, in 1860. After spending two years in study, he joined the Newark Conference in 1862, and was stationed at Roseville, where he remained two years. In 1864 he was stationed at Passaic; while there, July 13th, he was drafted in the United States service. Although friends tried to dissuade him from his purpose, and offered to furnish a substitute, yet his love for his country was so great he felt it his duty to go at her call. He shouldered his musket, and fought in at least one of the hardest battles of the war. In October, however, he was appointed to a chaplaincy. He married, July 30, 1865, Miss Martha A. Peck, an estimable lady and a faithful wife. In September, 1865, having returned from the army, he was sent to supply Millburn. In 1866 he was at Rockaway, where he was returned the year following, but was compelled soon to give up his charge on account of failing health. In 1868 he was appointed to Rockland Lake, and in 1869 to Basking Ridge. Early in this year he was again under the necessity of giving up his charge. This was his last field of labor. There was nothing of self or egotism in our deceased brother, and perhaps for this reason he did not pass among men for half his worth. His friendship once gained was constant and unchanging. He was cheerful, gentle, and sympathizing. Always charitable and magnanimous, he tried to win the weak and erring to the right, while his sterling integrity was a rebuke to the vicious and willfully bad. Men felt his nobility.

His death was such as we might expect from the life of a man of Christian principle. In his sickness and passage through the valley the word of God was his companion and comfort. Consumption wasted his body to the merest skeleton, but said he, with the triumph of faith, "We know that if this earthly house of our tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens."

3. ALFRED COOKMAN, M.A., died in Newark, N. J., November 13, 1871, aged forty-three years. He was the son of the renowned and lamented George G. Cookman, one of the most brilliant preachers of a former generation. The son inherited a measure of the ardent temperament, magnetic power, and earnest religious feeling which made the father's success.

His ministry began in 1848, in the Philadelphia Conference, where, as also in the New York and Wilmington Conferences, he filled with acceptability very prominent positions; acquitting himself always with ability in the pulpit, intensifying the result of his more public efforts by a wonderful skill in the conduct of social meetings, and an almost unsurpassed influence as pastor in the homes of his people. In the maturity of his powers he gave much attention to the elucidation and exemplification of the doctrine of holiness, laboring earnestly to expound it, and living humbly and devoutly to adorn his own confession; and this union of practice with theory beautified his useful life with the graces of completeness and consistency. He was gentle, winning, and persuasive. Personally unselfish, he was ambitious only for Christ.

The love and tears of thousands attended him to his grave. The foremost men of our own Church, with representatives of many sister Churches, took part in the funeral services, and it was apparent that he had touched society at many points.

Brother Cookman's last sermon was from the text, "We all do fade as a leaf." Leaving the pulpit much exhausted, while holding a faded leaf in his hand, he said to a friend that the preacher and the leaf were much alike. That night he was seized with the disease which terminated fatally some weeks later. On the morning of the last day of his life, although his family and friends were slow to believe the fact, he felt and said, "I am sweeping close by the gates of death;" and this statement of his condition, coupled with one referring to his religious experience, which he was fond of using, have been associated in the thoughts of his friends, and in the coming years we shall think of him and speak of him as "sweeping through the gates washed in the blood of the Lamb."

4. GEORGE OLIVER CARMICHAEL was born in Lumberland, Sullivan County, N. Y., October 31, 1833, and died at his residence in Hainesville, Sussex County, N. J., on Sunday, March 3, 1872. He was converted at his father's house in 1850, when he was seventeen years old. He received license as a local preacher January 12, 1856. He was admitted on trial in the New Jersey Conference in 1857, and being appointed to Swartzwood, he was from that time connected with the Newark Conference. His appointments thenceforward were, Delaware, Palisades, Piermont, Broadway, Wesley Chapel, Mount Horeb, Stillwater, Swartzwood, and finally Hainesville, where "he ceased at once to work and live." Though his early educational advantages were very limited, he was throughout his lifework a diligent student. He possessed sterling qualities of heart and mind, and these, with the blessing of the Holy Spirit, made him an acceptable preacher and a very successful pastor. He was very methodical in his habits. He excelled as a skillful financier, and always left the field in good order for his successor. During his last year of earthly toil he was more than ever earnest, as if realizing that "the night was coming when man's work is done."

On Sunday, February 25, he performed his usual work, preaching three times with peculiar unction. On Wednesday following he made a pastoral visit, accompanied by his family, and in the evening was stricken down with hemorrhage of the lungs. He lingered until Sunday morning, March 3, when "he closed his eyes to all below to open them in heaven."

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

B. M. Walker, Lawton Cady—2.

1. BENJAMIN M. WALKER died in Quarryville, Conn., March 28, 1871, aged 62. He was born in Springfield, Vt., April 26, 1809; was converted in September, 1830, and united with the Church in Springfield April 10, 1831. A few days after he was married to Miss Abbie Haskins, who, with one son, survives him. He was licensed to preach September 2, 1831, and joined the New England Conference on trial in June, 1834. On the division of the Conference he became a member of the Providence Conference. His appointments were as follows: Barnstable, Mansfield, Franklin, Scitico, Tolland, Glastenbury, Wapping, North-west Bridgewater, Woodstock, Square Pond, Norwich Falls, Eastford, South Coventry, West Thompson, South Glastenbury, Wapping, Moosup, Staffordville, Tolland, Windsorville, Quarryville. In all these charges there were conversions under his ministry, and in many of them extensive revivals of religion. On the Glastenbury Circuit the first year he had a revival; and in the second, in one of the churches, East Glastenbury, there were one hundred and fifty conversions, of whom one hundred were added to the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was emphatically a man of work. On one charge he held meetings five evenings in the week for the entire year. In August, 1869, in Windsorville, he was stricken with paralysis; yet he labored on for about a year, when he had other attacks. He preached many times in a sitting posture. His last public services were in his church at Quarryville on the first Sabbath in January, when he preached and administered the sacrament. From this time he gradually failed till, on March 28, he passed away. He had no fear of death. He looked forward with joy to "mansions of rest." He desired that his funeral sermon should be preached from 2 Tim. iv, 6-8; while, instead of sad, funereal dirges, he selected, to be sung on that occasion, the joyful hymns commencing, "On Jordan's stormy banks I stand;" "I will sing you a song of that beautiful land;" "Land ahead, its fruits are waving." Confident that in that solemn hour his glad soul would be rejoicing in glory, he would not have his friends on earth indulge in sorrow.

2. LAWTON CADY was born in Killingly, Conn., July 24, 1796. He was converted in the South in 1820, where he spent some two years amid slave institutions, which he thoroughly abhorred. He joined this Conference in 1842, and was stationed in Coventry, Conn., and subsequently filled the following appointments: Mystic, Uncasville, Norwich North Church, East Glastenbury, in Connecticut; Portsmouth, Smithfield, Cumberland, in Rhode Island; Westport Point, South Somerset, North Dighton, North Cohasset, Marston's Mills, Wareham, Marshfield, Mansfield, East Falmouth, Truro, South Scituate, Duxbury, Yarmouth Port, Eastham, and North Shore, where he closed his life peacefully on the 18th of June, 1871, in certain hope of a glorious immortality.

Brother Cady was a good man and minister of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. In theology he was thoroughly Wesleyan, his sermons were lucid and accurate in statement of doctrine, his style clear, arrangement logical, in method argumentative, addressing the understanding rather than the conscience and heart. He was social in his nature, easy in conversation, and hence moved pleasantly among the people of his charge.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

B. Eaton, E. Stover, W. R. Brown, E. Baker—4.

1. BENNETT EATON was born in Enosburgh, Vt., December 31, 1806, and "born again" in the same place in 1826. In 1830 he was united in marriage with Miss Betsey Maria Webster, of Bakersfield, Vt., who, with their three children, a daughter and two sons—both members of this Conference—survive to mourn their loss. During many years he was a very useful and successful class-leader and chorister in the Church in Enosburgh. And in all the years of his residence in this place he was held in high esteem by his fellow-citizens, and twice represented his native town in the State Legislature—besides filling other offices of honor and trust. But in the midst of business cares and honors he heard the call of the Master to enter the ministerial field. In the year 1850 he was received on trial in this Conference. This step was long delayed by reason of his care for his aged and honored parents, for whose comfort he delighted to provide. After his admission to the Conference his appointments were the following: Morristown, Sheldon and Enosburgh, Essex, Elizabethtown, Easton, Crown Point, and Luzerne, each two years. In 1864 he was transferred to the Vermont Conference, and stationed at Charlotte one year and in Middlebury two years. The next four years he was Presiding Elder of Burlington District, and in 1868 was a Delegate to the General Conference at Chicago. Having finished the constitutional term on the District, he was stationed at Crescent, N. Y., in 1871, where, March 7, 1872, he entered into his rest.

Brother Eaton was an able minister—not showy or specially brilliant, but clear, strong, and impressive. While he was a firm and loyal Methodist from unwavering conviction, he was also generous and liberal to all who embraced the great doctrines of evangelical religion. He was too conscientious to be indifferent, and too large-hearted to be a bigot. A faithful and firm administrator, and an energetic but judicious friend of reforms, he was at the same time a most tender-hearted and lovable friend. In his pastoral relations he was greatly beloved. During a somewhat protracted illness he stood at his post, and with few exceptions preached twice each Sabbath, his last sermon having been delivered but twelve days before his death. He remarked that he was looking to the time of the Conference with gladness, for then he should rest. He had hoped that, by laying off all responsibility and care, he would at least partially recover; but he entered into rest sooner than he expected, and his "works do follow him." He leaves a clean record as his legacy to his family and to the Conference. "Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright; for the end of that man is peace."

2. ENSIGN STOVER was born May 15, 1815, in Pittstown, N. Y. He was converted November 16, 1831, under the ministry of Rev. Stephen Remington. After his conversion he taught school and worked on his father's farm alternately. November 30, 1836, he was married to Miss Barbara Snyder, (who survives him,) a most estimable woman. In 1837 Mr. Stover went to Ohio and engaged in mercantile business; but although he prospered, he felt that God was calling him to the work of the ministry. His pastors thrust him out again and again to preach, and every time he spoke God honored the word. On December 31, 1837, he was called to take charge of a watch-night service at an appointment near his home. He went with the purpose of praying out the old year and watching with the people the incoming of the new year; but God here sealed his call to the ministry, and within a week he witnessed the new birth of seventy souls, and the consecration of scores of those who had been living below their privilege in the divine life. Now he consented to take a Local Preacher's commission, and in July, 1838, having disposed of all his material interests in Ohio, he returned with his family to the home of his childhood. Almost immediately he took work under Elder Noah Levings, on Dalton Circuit. In 1839 he joined this Conference, in which he labored without intermission for over thirty years. His appointments were Dalton, Bennington, Brunswick, Petersburgh, Argyle, Plattsburgh, Union Village, Cohoes, Waterford, Cambridge twice, two Churches in Albany, two in Troy, and two in West Troy. Successful revivals were the rule wherever he was stationed. His labors closed with a revival at his last appointment, Ohio-street, West Troy. "Finally, brethren, farewell!" was his last text and his last utterance to his last charge. At the last session of the Conference, in trembling, pathetic tones, Brother Stover asked for a relationship that would afford him the rest his increasing "many infirmities" required. Immediately after Conference he removed to Saratoga Springs, where he owned a beautiful home, expecting soon to recuperate and return to the active ministry; but he had hardly got settled in his new home when he was seized with typhoid pneumonia. God permitted the disease to break the cords that bound him to earth, and the Master took him to a mansion already fitted up. He has written his memorial in many hearts here below, and he is enjoying his reward on high.

3. William R. Brown was born near Amsterdam, N. Y., March 7, 1828, and died in West Troy, N. Y., June 8, 1871, aged forty-three. His parents were Methodists. In his fifteenth year he was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Amsterdam. He immediately began to experience an inexpressible desire to preach the Gospel. In his journal he says: "I cannot say that my mind shrank from the performance of this work as others have testified concerning themselves. To me it seemed a blessed work—a work in which I should delight to engage." He was licensed to exhort in 1848, and to preach in 1849, and was received on trial in this Conference in 1850. On the day before the session of the Conference at which he was received he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Smith, a daughter of the venerable Rev. Henry Smith, of this Conference, in whom he found a helpmeet indeed. To her earnest piety and hearty co-operation with him in his work he attributed much of his success. His first appointment after joining the Conference was to New Ashford, where he remained one year. Subsequently he was appointed to Johnstown, Schoharie, Rensselaerville, Pine-street, Burlington; Cohoes; Ferry-street, Albany; Washington-street, West Troy; Pittsfield, and Lansingburgh. In each of these charges he labored with great acceptability and success. Though his early educational advantages were quite limited, he brought to his work on entering the ministry a strong determination to excel, and by his untiring industry he gathered stores of information and wisdom from all fields of literature and science, ranking in his later years as one of the ablest preachers of our Conference. For five consecutive years he was elected Conference secretary, and in 1868 he was chosen one of the delegates to the General Conference. While in attendance at the Conference at Chicago he was seized with a slight hemorrhage of the lungs, and in consequence left for his home a few days before the close of the session. From this attack, however, he suffered but temporary inconvenience, and was soon at his work again as earnestly as ever. But in August following he was suddenly prostrated by a very severe hemorrhage, which nearly resulted in his immediate death. For ten months after this he was unable to perform work of any kind. Putting himself under skillful medical treatment he gradually regained strength, and at the Conference session in April, 1869, he was re-appointed to Lansingburgh with an assistant. At the close of the year he deemed it advisable to retire from the active ministry, hoping that, by resting a year or two, he might entirely recover his health. Therefore, taking a superannuated relation to his Conference, he engaged in business in the city of Troy, and, for fourteen months, seemed to be improving in health. But on the twenty-fifth of May last, while at his business, he was again prostrated by a severe hemorrhage and carried home to die. During the two weeks which intervened between this time and the hour of his death he maintained a cheerful and happy frame of mind. He arranged his business affairs, and gave full directions concerning his funeral. Having attended to these temporal matters, he seemed rather anxious than otherwise to depart and be with Christ. The closing hours of his life were hours of glorious triumph. On the day preceding his death he looked with eager eyes heavenward, and with a smile said, "My heavenly home—blessed home, I shall soon be there!" He then quoted that beautiful passage descriptive of heaven, "There shall be no night there," etc. "This poor body," he continued, "deformed and scarred by disease, will soon perish; but my soul, washed and made clean in the blood of the Lamb, shall live in bliss for evermore." And again, only a few hours before he died, he said exultingly, "O Jesus, I trust in thee; I rest in thee, my Daysman on high, the Captain of my salvation! Bless the Lord, O my soul!" Soon after this he took leave of his family with an appropriate word and an affectionate kiss to each. This done, he said, "Now let me go home; let me go home!" and in a few minutes breathed his last and sweetly entered into rest.

4. Eri Baker died in Berne, Albany County, N. Y., the place of his nativity, February 18, 1872, having just entered upon his thirty-ninth year. On September 13, 1856, while secretly pleading with God in his own house, he obtained a sense of the Divine favor. He united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and almost immediately began to pray in public and to exhort. In less than a year he received a license to preach, and henceforth held himself ready to enter every open door. Nor was he permitted to labor in vain; the seal of his ministry was had in the conversion of sinners. He was received on trial in this Conference in 1866, and was returned to the Richmondville Circuit, on which he had labored as a supply the previous year. His subsequent appointments were Mineral Springs, Lebanon Circuit, (where his health failed, causing him to temporarily cease work,) Fultonville, and Grosvenor's Corners and Sloansville Circuit. Here he remained some eighteen months. In October, 1871, he was again obliged by ill health to be released from his work. He returned to his native place, where in four months he steadily wasted away under the unyielding power of disease.

Brother Baker's ministerial career was brief but eminently effective. The Lord gave him the hearts of the people. His personal experience was clear. On his deathbed he said: "O how I triumph! I shall soon mount up and walk the golden streets. Halleluia! I wish the neighbors would come in. I want to show forth the praises of God! O let Jesus be exalted!" "Did you ever believe," he asked of his wife, "that Christ would give me such a victory? Did you know there was so much in religion? This is no delusion. I have followed no cunningly-devised fable. I always thought he would give me grace, but never expected such a victory. I am right on the verge of eternity. All is clear as a sunbeam. Jesus bears me up in his arms. If this be dying it is a pleasure. The gates fly open wide; the abundant entrance I see. Halleluia! It pays to be true to God. I am no longer in a strait betwixt two, but am anxious to depart and be with Christ. I have got where the beloved Cookman got; I would not turn my hand over to live." Such a triumphant death needs no comment.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

T. W. Tucker, E. B. Morgan, N. Stutson, D. E. Chapin*—4.

1. THOMAS W. TUCKER was born in Boston, April 22, 1791. He was converted when sixteen years of age, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1807. He early became actively interested in all matters relating to the kingdom of Christ. The social services of his Church were warmly supported by him. As an instance of this we will record that it was in his arms that the afterward famous "Father Taylor," then a friendless sailor-boy and a broken-hearted penitent, was borne forward to the altar, from which that devout man of God, Elijah Hedding, had thundered forth the eloquent appeal which awakened him to a sense of his condition. He was admitted into this Conference in 1812. His appointments were Tolland, Conn., Ashburnham, Portsmouth, N. H., Athens, Vt., Martha's Vineyard, Bristol, R. I., Mansfield and Somerset, New London, Marblehead, Milford, Athens and Weston, Vt., Needham, Weymouth and Hingham, Newport and Portsmouth, R. I., Wilbraham and Ludlow, Westfield, Harvard, Lunenburgh, Milbury and Leicester, Oxford, Hallerton, Saxonville, Sudbury, Grafton, Watertown, Dorchester, and Medford. This brings his life down to the year 1849, when he became superannuated, which relation he retained until his death. Previously he had spent one year (1828) as a supernumerary. In his active service he was indeed a workman that needed not to be ashamed. During the years of his superannuation he supplied various charges temporarily as the occasion offered and his health permitted.

God favored Brother Tucker with that crown of blessings, a deeply pious, loving, and intellectual wife. He was married to Miss Mary Orne in 1816. Their home was a place of delight. Their union was sacred, realizing at once the lofty Bible ideal of love in marriage and the rhymed philosophy of the poets. Mrs. Tucker died in 1865; his life was protracted a few years longer—years of lofty Christian experience. His last sickness was short, but not too short to leave his testimony that all was right, all was well; that Christ was his support. Peace and resignation were the elements in which he closed his Christian career on the 6th of August, 1871. At his death he was the senior member of this Conference.

2. ERASMUS B. MORGAN was born in Wilmington, Vt., in 1806. He was converted when about twenty-five years of age, and immediately began to preach the word. For two years he was employed by the Presiding Elder, and in 1833 was received on trial in the New Hampshire Conference. He was stationed successively at Athens and Putney, Claremont, Peterborough, Westmoreland and Chesterfield, Keene, Landaff, East Haverhill, Lancaster, Canaan, South Reading. In 1846 he was superannuated, and continued in that and the supernumerary relation for seven years, after which, in 1853, he was stationed at Chesterfield, Mass., within the bounds of the New England Conference. After which he was stationed at Palmer, Three Rivers, Brookfield, Dudley. In 1857 he was superannuated, since which time he never resumed an effective relation. During 1871, while supplying the Church at North Blandford, his health began to fail. Soon after our last Conference he removed his residence to Williamsburgh, Mass., where his health rapidly failed. In a few weeks he was totally prostrated, and on June 10 he fell asleep in Jesus. Three or four days before he died

* Obituary not received.

a few friends gathered to pray with him. He said, "I am too weak to converse with you;" but as they sung, "Jesus, lover of my soul," and drew near in prayer, his soul's "strength was renewed," and triumphantly he exulted in the atoning blood by which he was saved. When asked what was the prospect before him he replied, "All is right; this is not the work of a minute, but of a life-time." "Bless the Lord," again he said, "death is the sweetest thought I have."

Brother Morgan was a man of strong, clear mind; no one could listen to his sermons without feeling that a Master in Israel stood before them. He was a decided man—uncompromising in his hostility to the powers of darkness, and in his advocacy of every movement calculated to elevate humanity and reveal more of the glory of Deity. An earnest lover of the Scriptures, it was natural that he should also be a devout man and full of the Holy Ghost. He loved to heartily join in services of prayer and praise. He was a faithful pastor; it was his continual joy to enter the home of suffering or mourning, and administer healing and cheering draughts of divine consolation. God was with him and honored his ministry with many saved souls. In his family relations he was abundantly blessed, one of his sons being a faithful member of the Rock River Conference. God has taken him.

3. NELSON STUTSON died April 16, 1871, at Springfield, Mass., aged 41. He was born in Monson, Mass., September 20, 1829. Most of his youth was spent in a cotton mill in Three Rivers, to which his father's family had removed. When about nineteen years of age he was soundly converted, and immediately gave promise of future usefulness. The Church saw his gifts and graces and soon elected him superintendent of its Sabbath-school, and, unsolicited, gave him a license to preach. With his conversion had come an unmistakable call to the ministry; his natural thirst for learning now increased. He entered Wilbraham Academy in the fall of 1849; while there he supplied a Church in Lynn. About this time he worthily won a local reputation as a poet, which continued and increased until his death. Untoward circumstances hindered his education, so that he did not enter college until 1854; he graduated in 1858. In 1859 he joined this Conference, and was stationed at Pynchon-street Church, Springfield. Here he labored two years; then two at Greenfield; three at Union-street, Springfield; two at South Boston, and one at Cambridgeport. When entering upon his second year at the latter place he was attacked with hemorrhage of the lungs, which obliged him to cease from active labor. The people of his charge showed their love for him by continuing his salary and supplying his pulpit while he was seeking for health by a three months' trip to Europe. The trip failed to recruit him, and he spent the winter at a favorite retreat among the hills of Wilbraham. The following spring he went to Vermont, hoping the change would do him good; but here he grew rapidly worse, and in August he moved to Springfield, where, having a host of friends, he could spend his last months amid familiar scenes and friendly faces. He continued to decline until April, when, hopefully trusting in that Saviour he had so faithfully preached to others, he peacefully went to his reward.

In the spring of 1859 Brother Stutson was united in marriage to Miss Mary Stebbins of Palmer, who, with an only daughter, survives him. He was a man of many rare and valuable qualities. Though exceedingly modest and retiring he made many friends, and few persons were ever loved more ardently or trusted more implicitly. His perceptions were remarkably clear; his memory very retentive; his imagination brilliant and chaste; his wit genial and ready; his judgment sound; his taste correct; his knowledge of men almost intuitive. As a scholar, his knowledge was thorough and accurate, rather than extensive. As a preacher, he was plain, practical, instructive, and earnest. The unlearned always understood, appreciated, and loved him; while the most cultivated were charmed and instructed. He was a trusted friend, a delightful companion, a devoted husband, a fond father, a sympathetic pastor, an able preacher, an honest man, and a true Christian. His memory is blessed.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

Abram Folsom, C. R. Homan—2.

1. ABRAM FOLSOM was born in Tunbridge, Vt., April 14, 1794, and died in Raymond, N. H., March 31, 1872. He was converted among the Free-will Baptists in 1805, but after a few years fell into skepticism. At length, by a course of study and patient investigation he became convinced of his error, and soon regained the favor and peace of God. From that time his experience was eminently clear and satisfactory. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1830, and was very useful as a class-leader until 1838, when he joined this Conference. His employment as a printer for twenty-eight years had given him a thorough knowledge of many things essential to a preparation for the ministry, and he entered upon his work, and for thirty-six years prosecuted it with ability and success. During all those years he did not lose one Sabbath by ill-health, and was very seldom absent from his work for a day. On all his fields of labor he was acceptable and useful. He was possessed of a clear mind, encyclopedic knowledge, good conversational powers, and preaching talents great in degree and original in kind. He was a very studious man. In pastoral relations he was diligent and sympathetic. At the age of seventy the state of his wife's health precluded further travel on her part; he therefore purchased a pleasant farm at Raymond. His future stations were from five to sixteen miles distant, and yet, with very few exceptions, he walked to and from them. Up to seventy-eight years of age his constant practice was to perform all the clerical duties of the Sabbath, attending the Sabbath-school and the prayer-meetings, and then to walk home late at night. After a few days' rest he traveled again to his work, visiting faithfully the families of his charge up to the Sabbath. He never failed to meet his appointments however inclement the weather. On one Sabbath shortly before his death he preached three sermons, led his Sabbath-school, and walked seventeen miles, and this, too, when wanting but a few weeks of seventy-eight years of age. His great anxiety was to "cease at once to work and live," and this was granted him. He performed his full work on his last Sabbath, and on the next entered his rest. He died in triumph. His loss is felt by his aged and feeble widow, by the Conference from whose sessions he was seldom absent for an hour, and by the Church for which he labored so long and so faithfully. His memory is precious.

2. CHARLES RANSOM HOMAN was born in Rumney, N. H., March 29, 1810, and died in Lake Village, N. H., April 4, 1872, aged sixty-two years. He wandered far in the darkness of infidelity before his conversion, openly opposing the Christian religion wherever and whenever he had opportunity; but in October, 1847, in West Concord, Vt., he was led to see his error, and after much conflict with himself and with the enemy of all righteousness, he was powerfully converted into the faith and love of Jesus. He immediately began to vindicate the faith he had for so many years endeavored to destroy, and boldly testified "that this Jesus is the Christ of God, and that he has power to save to the uttermost—for he saves me!" In 1852 he was admitted on trial in this Conference; was ordained Deacon by Bishop Baker in 1854, and Elder by Bishop Ames in 1859. He labored faithfully in the effective work for thirteen years, and for the last seven years he has held a superannuated relation. His last sickness was short and severely painful, which he bore with fortitude and cheerful resignation. Upon being asked if he had any message to send to his brethren of the Conference, he said, "Tell them to meet me among the glorified spirits."

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

B. G. Paddock, Fitch Reed, A. G. Burlingame, H. C. Hall—4.

1. BENJAMIN GREEN PADDOCK was born in Bennington, Vt., January 24, 1789. Rev. Zechariah Paddock, of Wyoming Conference, is a surviving brother of the deceased. The mother of these noble men is remembered as a woman of deep piety. For eighty-five years she lived a holy life. An abiding moral influence was thus exerted upon the domestic circle, and Benjamin was one of the first of a numerous household to give his heart to God. At the age of sixteen he was happily converted and united with the Church on Otsego Circuit, then in the Philadelphia Conference. Rev. Benjamin Bidlack, a renowned moral hero of that day, was the instrument of his awakening. Brother Paddock's name first appears upon the Minutes of Conference in 1810; he had labored the preceding year on Westmoreland Circuit under Rev. Jas. Kelsey. He was subsequently married to Miss Sophronia Perry, a lady whose worth was acknowledged wherever she was known. Until Brother Paddock became the head of a family his work was chiefly in the Wyoming Valley and its adjacent mountain region. He had a voice of uncommon sweetness and power, and the effect with which he sang for Jesus is still remembered in that section. Later he was not only stationed at Utica, Canandaigua, and Auburn, but filled the office of Presiding Elder for many years. It has been long, however, since increasing infirmities laid him aside from active work; still his buoyancy and cheerfulness of spirit never forsook him. He preached much for one of his years, and was strong in faith, giving glory to God to the last. His long life of usefulness closed at last at Metuchen, N. J., October 7, 1872, whither he had gone to enjoy the attentions of his children residing there. His dying hour was most tranquil and joyous. His salutation to his brother, who reached him the evening previous to his death, while it was characteristic, was most exultant. His last words were, "Farewell. Halleluia, all is well!"

2. FITCH REED died in Ithaca October 10, 1871, in his seventy-seventh year. He was converted when about nineteen years of age. He had been preparing for the medical profession; but he soon abandoned his studies, being satisfied that God called him to the ministry. In the fall of 1815 he received his license as local preacher, and was at once employed by Presiding Elder Nathan Bangs. In consequence of poor health his recommendation to the New York Conference was withheld until 1817, when he was admitted on trial. "In the ear of conscience," he says, "my call was as distinct and emphatic as if a voice from heaven had audibly declared, 'Preach or be lost forever.'" His first appointment was at the extreme eastern point of Long Island; his second was Dunham Circuit, Canada; his third was in the wilderness lying north of Lake Ontario. He was the Gospel pioneer of this region. He established his appointments, organized his circuit, which he traveled on foot, making his way through the trackless forest by the aid of a compass, and carrying with him an "Indian hatchet as a defense against wild beasts, and as a means of constructing bridges over streams of water too deep to ford." From the year 1820 Dr. Reed was for eight years a member of Genesee Conference and filled some of its most important stations, and when twenty-eight years of age was appointed Presiding Elder of Susquehanna District. In 1828 he was transferred to the New York Conference and was stationed at Rhinebeck; subsequently in New York City, Brooklyn, Poughkeepsie, and other important fields of labor, including New Haven District. In 1848 he was transferred to Oneida Conference, to which as an effective minister he gave fourteen years of valuable service, including seven years in the Presiding Eldership. In 1862 he was compelled to ask for a superannuated relation. He was a member of the General Conferences of 1820, 1824, and 1840. Dr. Reed was a man of scholarly attainments, possessed of an active, logical mind, refined taste, quick, sound judgment, pure sentiments, strong and noble impulses. His preaching was marked by those peculiar excellences which naturally sprang from such qualities combined. It was at once instructive, entertaining, convincing, and persuasive. By his labors and sympathies he was always identified with the progressive spirit of the Church, whether in the cause of evangelism, education, or political and social reform. His piety was ardent and transparent; all knew its source; it bore the seal of Christ, and would meet the approval of heaven. Satisfactory and blessed as his experience of the Saviour's love had been for years, about one year before his death he began to speak positively and emphatically of an increase of enjoyment, and the sunset of his life was at once serene and brilliant.

3. Arnold G. Burlingame was born in Norwich, N. Y., August 27, 1808. He was converted December 6, 1825, and at once united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which he became a useful member. When nineteen years of age he was made a class-leader. In 1833 he received a license to exhort, the next year he was authorized to preach, and in 1836 he united with the Oneida Conference. His appointments were Smyrna, Bainbridge, Greene, Windsor, Spencer, Page, Brook, Vestal, Factoryville, Union, Marathon, Greene, South New Berlin, New Berlin, Mount Upton, Sherburne. After thus serving the Methodist Episcopal Church for twenty-two years his health failed, and he received a superannuated relation. He now removed westward, and located himself within the bounds of the Rock River Conference, where, whenever able, he served feeble charges as a supply. In 1868 he and his most excellent wife were called to the charge of the "Southern Tier Orphan Asylum" at Elmira, for which position both were eminently fitted. During the last fourteen months of his life his health steadily declined, but he never lost his hold on God. They brought to him water as he was dying. He turned away his lips, saying, "Water of life! water of life!" and then his spirit took its flight.

Brother Burlingame was a most precious, godly man, and a useful minister. Over fifteen hundred were converted under his ministry. His character was distinguished for its amiability, great prudence, and inflexible integrity. Doubtless he now is an inhabitant of that country where they never say, "I am sick."

4. Hezekiah C. Hall was born in Smyrna, N. Y., in 1810, and died in Franklinville, N. J., February 16, 1872. His youth was spent on his father's farm. During his early manhood he roughed it in the Western wilds. At the age of twenty-four he was converted. Soon after his union with the Methodist Episcopal Church he was appointed a class-leader, and shortly after a license to preach was urged upon him. After spending a few years of usefulness in this capacity he studied at the Cazenovia Seminary, traveled one year under the Presiding Elder, and was admitted to the Oneida Conference in 1844. He served the following stations successively: East Homer, North Lansing, Scipio, Elbridge and Sennett, Mentz, Owasco, M'Lean, Onondaga, South Onondaga, Nelson, Perryville, Clockville, De Ruyter, and Shedd's Corners. For the last twenty years Brother Hall was ill more than half the time. In February, 1867, hoping to be benefited by a milder climate, he moved with his family to New Jersey and settled in the town of Franklin, Gloucester County. But he only partially recovered; and to add to his sufferings he was thrown from a wagon, dislocating his hip; this was imperfectly set and caused him great pain. For six and a half years he was almost constantly confined to his bed. During this time he had no privileges of worship except family devotion, and occasionally when a few brethren came in for a prayer-meeting. But he steadily trusted in God, and cherished hopes of being better until the last year of his life. As his strength failed the assaults of the enemy were particularly severe, and he struggled with

> Doubts and fears which active labor
> In the ranks can never feel;
> Wrestling in a broken harness,
> Fighting with a blunted steel.

The struggle was severe, but faith conquered, and at eventime there was light. Frequently he asked his physician how long, saying he need not fear to tell him. When told by his wife that his pains were evidently those of mortification, he exclaimed, "Welcome! welcome! welcome!" He retained his reason to the last, and died in the hope of a blissful immortality.

Brother Hall was blessed with a strong mind, and but for a feeble body might have done great things for Christ's cause. But he labored not in vain. A good measure of success attended his labors, and he will have many stars in the crown of his rejoicing. He was plain and practical as a preacher, striving by strong words and pointed appeals to impress Divine truth upon the heart.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

B. Ellis, M. Adams, J. L. Legg—3.

1. BENJAMIN ELLIS was born in Tioga, N. Y., and died in Nichols, September 13, 1871, aged eighty-two years. He was converted in early life near Factoryville, N. Y. Uniting with the Church he soon received license to preach, and in 1829 was received into the Oneida Conference. When that body was divided in 1852 he became a member of this Conference, and so remained until the close of life. He traveled as an effective preacher for twenty-one years, was a supernumerary five years, and a superannuate seventeen years.

Brother Ellis was a good preacher and a powerful exhorter; he was mighty in faith and prayer, and great revivals followed his labors wherever he went. In his last illness he was happy, and shouted the praises of the Lord. Shortly before death he requested that prayer be offered and joyful hymns sung, and with the assurance on his lips that he would certainly again see the members of his Conference "on the other shore" if not here, he sweetly passed away.

2. MOSES ADAMS was born in Jefferson County, N. Y., January 11, 1806. In youth he professed faith in Christ, and became a member of the Church. Few more blameless have ever lived. In 1830 he joined the Oneida Conference. He was physically feeble, yet for nearly twenty years he performed effective service; when, finding himself unable longer to labor, he became a superannuate. He resided at Watertown, N. Y., until 1854, when he removed to Racine, Wis., in which place a portion of his family had previously located. His life here was useful—crowded with work for God. Yet once again he removed. Two sons and a daughter having gone to Kansas, he followed them some time during the last year of his life. He found a number of religiously-inclined people at Delphos, but no organized Church. He went at once to work, forming a Sabbath-school, and preparing the way for a Methodist church. He preached frequently, and traveled long distances on foot to visit the people. His death, indeed, seemed to have been hastened by overwork. His end was quiet and peaceful.

Brother Adams, though not classically educated, was a man of extensive information, well-disciplined mind, and refined literary taste. He was an excellent preacher, and an eminently laborious and sympathetic pastor. He never grudged work, and all his efforts were consecrated to God in prayer. The success of such a man in this world, and his triumphant entry into that which is to come, are matters of course.

3. JUDSON L. LEGG died in Speedsville, N. Y., Aug. 30, 1871, aged forty-three years. Brother Legg gave his heart to God when he was twenty-three years of age, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, but for the first ten years of his new life failed to be as faithful and spiritual as was his duty. Two years after his conversion he was married to Miss Sabra E. Clark, who proved to be a helpmeet indeed. Twelve years ago he felt the necessity of a deeper work of grace. He sought and received the blessing of full salvation, and ever after was able to testify that "the blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth from all sin." From that hour he was a new man. He gave up his business, and at once, with all diligence, prepared for the work of the ministry.

In the spring of 1861 Brother Legg united with the Wyoming Conference, and was appointed successively to Speedsville, Windham, Meshoppen, Tunkhannock, and Montrose. Here his health failed, and he was compelled to abandon his cherished work and become a superannuate. While in declining health a new trial awaited him. His beloved wife passed over the river, leaving him to journey on alone, but God was with him. With one of old he could say, "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." Brother Legg was a good preacher, and his popularity among the people of his several charges is not a matter for surprise. Like the Apostle Paul, "one thing" engrossed his attention; he sought erring souls with the tender love of a father, and tended his flock like a shepherd. In every station revivals were the result of his ministrations. In Tunkhannock he met a crying want of the locality by starting a free Church enterprise. A genuine Christian, his holy life and glowing experiences of the "uttermost" prevalency of salvation can never be forgotten by those favored with the opportunity of noticing the one or listening to the other. The translation of such men into glorified saints seems after all but a slight change.

A. C. Field, D. B. Turner, S. C. Perry—3.

1. ANDREW CRAIG FIELD was born in Hobart, N. Y., April 6, 1815, and died in Tarrytown, N. Y., January 13, 1872, aged fifty-six. His parents were exemplary Christians. When about twelve years old he left the parental roof to reside with his brother-in-law, O. S. Haviland, Esq., in Prescott, U. C., with whom he learned the saddler's trade. Here, when a little over thirteen years of age, when alone in his room, engaged in an earnest, prayerful struggle of soul, he experienced the forgiveness of his sins. He immediately went down into the midst of the family, and, with uplifted hands and streaming eyes, exclaimed, "I want to tell all the world what the Lord has done for my soul." He at once commenced his life-work by establishing and maintaining a prayer-meeting among his young companions, and was the means of bringing several of them to Christ. He commenced his ministry on the old Charlotte Circuit, as the colleague of Rev. O. G. Hedstrom, in 1834. When leaving home, after mounting his horse, he turned and said with earnestness: "Sister, pray for me. If I do not have a revival before long you will see me back again." But the Lord of the harvest saved him from discouragement by granting the only satisfactory compensation of a preacher's toil, a revival in the beginning of his labors. His name first appears in the Minutes in 1837. His subsequent appointments were Prattsville, Catskill and Durham, Coeyman's, Deposit, Charlotte, Marbletown, Sullivan, Monroe, Sugar Loaf, Hyde Park, New Windsor, Rondout, Montgomery, New Windsor again, Fremont, Morrisania, and Dobb's Ferry. While in the last-named appointment, in February, 1870, he was attacked by partial paralysis, from which he never rallied. He had commenced his itinerant labors with a strong frame, and a face indicative of rugged vital powers; but he toiled excessively, especially during revival seasons, and died a martyr to overwork. Able and beautiful as had been his life, he never displayed so much mental vigor, emotional fervor, or spiritual beauty, as when prostrated in utter helplessness on his death-bed. On the 8th of January, his last Sunday on earth, Rev. Dr. Brown, his Presiding Elder, called upon and found him in a delightful mood. "I cannot say I am rushing through the gates," said he, "but I am going slowly. One of my favorite texts always has been, 'Blessed are they that do his commandments; that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.' I am going where Christ is. All there is in religion here is the manifestation of Christ, and I think it will be so there. As I near the shore I feel increasing attraction." The next day, as two brethren who, having called, were about to leave, he exclaimed, "Good-by! Tell the preachers I am going through the gates into the city trusting in Jesus. Tell the old members of the Conference, Brother Richardson and others, that I am grateful for all their kind advice. Tell the young preachers their great model is the Saviour. O if I had a million souls I would give them all to Jesus!" In this frame, growing more and more heavenly, with visions of the upper glory continually ravishing his soul, he passed away from earth.

The ministry of Brother Field was eminently successful. No one could be in his company, even for an hour, without discovering that the object of his life was to win souls. He was so transparently sincere, and so kind and unselfish, that none could doubt him, and few could resist him. He brought to every enterprise an unusually cheerful and sanguine temperament. He could never see discouragements. He often pursued an end with persistence and final success after all others interested had abandoned hope. While here he was ever in the thickest of the fight against evil; now he is numbered with those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

2. DAVID B. TURNER was born in Watertown, Conn., December 3, 1806. When he was four years old his father's family removed to Jefferson, Schoharie County, N. Y., where David spent his childhood and youthful days. His father's house was a Methodist preaching-place. At the age of twenty-three he was converted. Soon after his conversion came the call to the ministry, but his lack of preparation and sense of insufficiency for this highly important and responsible work made him hesitate till he lost his enjoyment. God then graciously visited him with affliction, which aroused him to a sense of his duty and danger, and he consented to devote his life to the great work of the Christian ministry. He was received on trial in this Conference with the late Dr. Jas. Floy and twenty-three others. His appointments were Bloomville and Walton Circuit, Middletown, Deposit, Windham, Coeyman's, Kortright, Bedford, Whitlockville, Fishkill, Dutchess, Amenia, Fishkill West, New Paltz Landing, Monroe, Montgomery, New Windsor, Rondout, Milan, North Hillsdale and Egremont, New Windsor, Little Britain and Washingtonville. We might dwell forever on his distinguishing traits of character—his gravity, sincerity, and artless simplicity. He was transparent, open as a sunflower. He was happy in his domestic relations. As a husband, he was all that could be desired. As a father, he was gentle, tender, loving, and had "no greater joy than when his children walked in the truth;" his children rise up and bless his memory. He was well read in Methodist theology, was sound in doctrine, and a great lover of the writings of Wesley and Fletcher. His sermons were plain and carefully prepared; he brought "beaten oil into the sanctuary." In preaching he made no effort at display or show, believing that truth while "unadorned is adorned the most." He kept a record of the sermons he had preached, which numbered nearly six thousand. He was constitutionally grave, and in the pulpit was peculiarly solemn; "he never courted a grin when he should woo a soul;" he talked of life and death, bliss and woe, and heaven and hell as realities, believing them so to be. He made "full proof of his ministry," and was very successful. In several of his fields of labor he had powerful and extensive revivals. He had a heart formed for friendship, was an affectionate colleague, always feeling a deep interest in the welfare of the junior preachers, with some of whom he was a model which they delighted to imitate. At his last appointment—Washingtonville—having to preach three times a day, his health failed toward the close of the year, and at the Conference of 1870 he reluctantly took a superannuated relation, and yet he loved to preach so well he was afterward employed to do regular work, and died at his post. His last illness was of about a fortnight's duration, during which he suffered almost as much as a martyr, at the same time with a martyr's patience. As he was nearing the world of spirits he had very humiliating views of himself, and said, "I have often wondered that God could use such an imperfect instrument—putting me into the ministry." Some one said to him, "God's strength is made perfect in weakness." "Yes," he replied, "our sufficiency is of God." Again he said, "If I had only been as faithful personally as I have been true to the Church I should feel better satisfied." As his only son bent over him and witnessed his sufferings, he said, "It is so hard, father, to see you suffer so." He replied with wonderful emphasis, "Yes; 'made perfect through sufferings;'" then pausing a moment, he repeated with increasing emphasis, "Yes; 'made perfect through sufferings.'" At another time one of his daughters said, "O, father, it is so hard to see you suffer so." He answered, "Daughter, it is all for my good. 'All things work together for good to them that love God; to them that are called according to his purpose.'" His wife, in a mournful tone, inquired, "How can I give you up?" "By looking unto the Lord." She said, "The rest of my journey will be lonely." He replied, "You will not go alone, for the Lord will go with you." Satan powerfully assailed him toward the last, and the dying man sent for his brethren to come and pray with him; it was the last assault of the adversary; then he obtained a complete victory over him. He then exclaimed, "There is no darkness! all is light ahead! I have observed that people go to visit the graves of their friends when all is gloomy. I think the morning is the best time, when all is cheerful and the birds are singing." Then he triumphantly exclaimed, "There is something glorious in the doctrine of the resurrection!" His mind was clear and unclouded to the last. To him death had no sting, the grave no terror, eternity no darkness. He gave directions in regard to his funeral, wishing it to "be plain—no show, no ostentation"—and this was in perfect accordance with all the acts of his life. On Wednesday evening, at seven o'clock, on January 31, 1872, Rev. David B. Turner, having served his generation, by the will of God fell asleep. He left a widow, a son, and three daughters, who sorrow not as those that have no hope, believing that those that sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

3. SALMON C. PERRY died March 6, 1872, aged sixty-four. He was born in what is now called East Attleboro, Mass., May 27, 1807. His parents were members of the Congregational Church, rigid in their creed, and strict in their morals. His early education was such as a rural neighborhood in those times afforded. He passed his youth mostly with his father on the farm. When quite young he was convicted of sin, and, encouraged by an uncle, a Methodist preacher, began to attend Methodist meetings, although the nearest to his father's house was seven miles distant. It was while making this journey—in a lonely piece of woods—he was converted. Soon afterward he was persuaded it was his duty to preach the Gospel. He entered Wilbraham Academy, then under the care of Dr. Fisk, and having graduated there, became a student in Brown University, under the presidency of Dr. Wayland. After his graduation, being somewhat worn by excessive study, and in indifferent health, he sought, by advice of Dr. Fisk, for a position to teach. He found his place and opportunity at Mr. Swinburn's Academy, a very flourishing institution at the time, in the village of White Plains, N. Y. Numbered among his pupils at this time was Rev. Dr. Curry, the present editor of the "Christian Advocate," who prepared for college under his direction, and between whom and our deceased brother there was cherished much mutual esteem until the day of his death. He here entered into marriage bonds with the sister of the principal. He was here also licensed as a local preacher in the Methodist Episcopal Church, serving the Churches of the neighborhood, and materially assisting the Rev. Peter P. Sandford, who at the time was in infirm health, and by whom he was greatly esteemed. He joined this Conference in 1838, and traveled as an effective preacher twenty-two years. His successive fields of labor were, Yonkers, Durham and Middlefield, Stratford and Bridgeport, Bridgeport, Bushwick, Peekskill, Twenty-seventh Street, New York, Yonkers and Kingsbridge, Fiftieth Street, New York, Red Hook, Salisbury, Yorkville, Tremont, and Washington Heights. In the year 1860 he was made supernumerary, and in 1861 he was superannuated, in which relation he continued until the time of his death. From the time that he was laid aside from the effective work, his pulpit services were ever available to the extent of his ability. He was taken ill with a violent cold, the result of attending a funeral, early in 1872. General debility increased his ailment, and soon his case assumed an aggravated form. He lacked the vital force necessary to resist the attack; his death took place at his home in Harlem.

Brother Perry was a sound theologian, an excellent preacher, an earnest Christian, and in every sense a safe conservative man. The transparency and purity of his character were singular and distinctive. During his last illness God gave him great tranquillity. Though at times sorely tempted, he relied on Christ, and, by faith, insured the victory.

"Night dews fall not more calmly on the ground, Nor weary worn-out winds expire so soft."

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

Harvey Husted.

HARVEY HUSTED was born in Alford, Mass., February 2, 1803. In 1817 he was "born again" of the Holy Spirit, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Having received a Divine call to the ministry, he removed to New York for the purpose of seeking the necessary preparation for the work. He spent several years in study, supporting himself meanwhile by teaching. He received a license to exhort December 8, 1828, and to preach about two years later. Soon after he was employed by the Presiding Elder on the Salisbury Circuit. In 1832 he was received on trial in the New York Conference, and, with Robert Seney, was appointed to the White Plains and Greenburgh Circuit. His subsequent fields of labor were New Rochelle Circuit, Sag Harbor, Bristol, Durham and Middlefield, Newington and Wethersfield, Kingston, Norwalk, Stratford, Bristol, Winsted, Greenpoint, South Second-street, Williamsburgh, New Canaan, Thirty-seventh-street, New York, Pound Ridge, Southbury, Stamford. In 1862, on account of enfeebled voice and health, he asked for a superannuated relation and removed to Epworth, Iowa, where he continued to labor with his usual zeal and acceptability as health and opportunity permitted. On the morning of October 4, 1871, he arose at an earlier hour than usual. His spirit was buoyant and happy. He left his room singing, as was his uniform custom; but on this occasion his song was prophetic. Its words were:

"My latest sun is sinking fast,
My race is nearly run;
My strongest trials now are past.
My triumph is begun."

As he was going to his barn, his voice was heard joyously ringing out in the clear and frosty air:

"O come, angel band!
Come and around me stand;
O bear me away on your snowy wing
To my immortal home!"

A few moments later a passing neighbor saw him lying prostrate on the ground and insensible. It proved to be a case of apoplexy. He lingered about twelve hours, and then passed away to his "immortal home."

Brother Husted was a good man. His conscientiousness was of the highest order; his natural sympathies were tender, and his affections ardent. He knew nothing of gloom or of misanthropy. He looked on the bright side of life, and had a pleasant word for every body. His home was a happy one, and his family, by whom he was beloved, now mourn him with a touching grief. Among his ministerial brethren he was always genial and brotherly. He cared for the poor and afflicted, the widow and orphan; but especially did he pity the enslaved, and in the memorable antislavery contest, which extended through his entire effective ministry, he stood in the front rank of the reformers and did heroic service. His ministry was characterized by earnestness, and his sermons were experimental and practical; his style was simple, direct, and impressive, his eyes being often suffused with tears while he entreated sinners to flee from the wrath to come. As a pastor he blended tenderness and strictness in the administration of Discipline. Many souls were gathered by him into the fold of the Good Shepherd, some of whom doubtless welcomed his saintly spirit into the heavenly habitations.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

S. W. Russell.

SAMUEL W. RUSSELL was born in Canaan, Maine, December 24, 1833. In youth he became a resident of Pittston, and was there converted. Shortly after joining the Church he received license to preach. He was received into this Conference in 1855, and was appointed successively to Bridgeton and Naples, Harpswell, East Poland and Minot, Lisbon, Durham, Richmond, and to East Poland and Minot again. This was his last charge. His health failing, he was compelled to superannuate, and was never again able to share in the active work. His labors were crowned with abundant success. He had a large place in the hearts of his Conference brethren, and was beloved by his flock. He was a good pastor, a clear preacher, and an energetic man. Over a year ago he removed to West Tennessee, in the hope that change of climate would renew his vigor; but pneumonia set in, and after a severe illness he died January 21, 1872, aged thirty-eight, in Knoxville, Tenn. On his death-bed, after he had spent an hour "talking with God," as he termed it, he said, "All is well; the future is bright." A few hours before his decease he aroused from slumber, and with joy beaming from his countenance said, "I have had such a beautiful dream." Just before he died he said to his wife, "I am dying now. I am going safely home." And so, from amid the still beauties of a peaceful earthly Sabbath his saved soul flitted upward to participate in the endless delightsome services of the upper sanctuary and the endless Sabbath.

O. Strout.

Oran Strout was born in North Poland, Maine, October 10, 1801, and died in Searsmont, February 23, 1872, at the ripe age of seventy years. He passed his youth mostly on his father's farm, and his education was such as a common district school affords. When nineteen years old he was converted, and shortly after joined the Church. In 1824 he was married to Miss Elizabeth Brown, in whom he found an affectionate, worthy helpmate. After some active service as a local preacher, and two years' travel under the Presiding Elder, he was admitted to East Maine Conference in 1853, and received consecutively the following appointments: Lubec, Franklin, Montville, East Pittston, North Waldoborough, and Appleton. He was superannuated in 1862.

Brother Strout was a genial, warm-hearted man, pleasant socially, and faithful in his pastoral visits. But his convictions were deep and abiding, and in matters of right and wrong his "trumpet" gave "no uncertain sound." His religious experience was thorough and joyful. He was mighty in prayer and impressive in pulpit discourse. During his protracted and distressing illness he manifested an unfaltering trust in God, and often shouted in holy ecstasy. Death crept slowly on him; "he fell on sleep," but the "triumphant entrance" was none the less glorious because unkenned by mortals.

W. M. Conant, J. Warner, D. Lambert—3.

1. WM. M. CONANT was born in Aurora, Ohio, September 16, 1824. He was converted and united with the Church under the ministry of his father, Rev. D. M. Conant, while yet in early youth. He studied at Norwalk Seminary and Ohio Wesleyan University. While in this latter institution he was divinely called to the ministry of the Gospel. In 1849 he was admitted to this Conference on trial. His appointments were Newcomerstown, Amity, Keene, Millersburgh, Wadsworth, Canal Dover, Mount Vernon, Cleveland, Brooklyn, Medina, Mount Gilead, Fairfield, New London, and Milan. Here, on the night of December 28, 1871, in the ripe years of manhood, his ministerial career was ended by death.

Shall we attempt to portray the religious and ministerial character of our late Brother Conant? A volume were hardly sufficient for this. His religious experience was clear, his convictions of duty positive, and his adherence to the right unfaltering. He had the wisdom which wins souls. He was an attractive preacher, a safe manager, a prudent counselor, a genial friend, a loving husband, an exemplary father. Having lived well, he died well. The Comforter blessed his dying hours. Among his last expressions was, "I am very happy." There needs no monument of stone to mark his resting-place; Love and Gratitude will not soon forget the pathway thither. His memory needs not to be enshrined in mortal praise; his life was his eulogy.

2. JESSE WARNER was born in Tuscarawas County, O., November 22, 1802, and removed with his parents near to Wooster, Ohio, in 1811, in which vicinity he continued to reside for more than sixty years until his decease on August 6, 1872.

In early life Brother Warner had but limited opportunities for education, but he improved them all. In his twenty-first year he was converted. He was received on trial in the Michigan Conference in 1837. The following were his appointments: Dalton, Millersburgh, Waynesburgh, Ashland, Wooster, Keene, Shanesville, Bolivar, Newcomerstown, Roscoe, Mount Eaton, and Jeromesville. Changes in Conferences boundaries eventually made him a member of this Conference. He was twice married and was blessed with twelve children. He lived to see them all converted, and one of them, Rev. E. Y. Warner, an honored member of our own body. He was thoroughly Methodistic as a preacher and pastor. His last illness was short, and his sufferings great; but his soul was tranquil. He spent the last year of his life improving his home, from which he has now passed to his home above.

3. DANIEL LAMBERT was converted under the preaching of Rev. Adam Poe. Of his birthplace and earlier history we know nothing. Soon after tasting of salvation he felt called upon to preach it to others. His educational advantages were limited, but his gifts were warmly appreciated by his brethren, and, in 1839, he was received on trial in Michigan Conference. He served the Church successively in the following places: Fredericktown, Belleville, Olivesburgh, Galena, Wooster District, Nashville, Keene, East Union, Amity, Fredericktown, Martinsburgh, East Union, Roscoe, Amity, East Union, Fredericktown. This was his first and last circuit. In 1871 he received a supernumerary relation, which he held but a few months, when he died very suddenly in his seventieth year.

Brother Lambert was an effective preacher, and conscientious in his performance of pastoral duties. Diffidence was perhaps the greatest hinderance to his usefulness. Among strangers, and even in his Conference, he said but little; yet in the pulpit he would often rise with his subject to strains of real eloquence. His talents were not few, and were all devoutly consecrated, and his long life was usefully spent in his Master's service. The toils of life with him are now over, and we trust he hath entered into rest.

QUEST. 12. Who have Died this year?

James Gaddis Deardorf.

JAMES GADDIS DEARDORF was born October 13, 1837, in Indiana, and removed to Oregon with his parents in 1850. He early exhibited studious habits. In 1853 he entered the Portland Academy, and continued there until the Indian war of 1855, in which he served as a volunteer. At the close of the war he returned to his studies, and in 1857 entered the Ohio Wesleyan University at Delaware. Contending against many disadvantages, and being compelled during most of his collegiate life to support himself by manual labor, he yet secured the first rank in scholarship, and returned to his western home with all the collegiate honors. In July, 1861, he was married to Miss Caltha H. Cotton. He spent four years in teaching in the city of Portland and Astoria. But he heard God's voice calling him to the more sacred duties of pastoral life. In 1865 he was admitted into this Conference, and labored usefully in Eastern Oregon. In 1868 he became a professor in Umpqua Academy. About this time he caught a severe cold, which, settling on his lungs, resulted in his losing his voice so that he was unable to speak above a whisper. He journeyed to California and Washington Territory in search of health, but his infirmities increased. Again he heard God's voice, this time calling him from the ranks of workers here to take his place amid the shining groups of choristers in heaven. He died May 31, 1872.

From the time of Brother Deardorf's conversion until his death there was no wavering of his faith. During his protracted suffering he often assured inquiring friends that he was on the "Rock of Ages." A few moments before he died he exclaimed, "O what a privilege it is to preach Jesus! If I only had my voice back again, and strength to endure, I would ask no higher honor in this world than to cry, Behold the Lamb!" He died in great peace and full of assurance of a blissful immortality. As a private Christian citizen, as an educator, and as a minister of the Gospel, he occupied a high position. All who knew him esteemed him as a man of worth, and God owned him as his child.

odist Episcopal Church in 1834; was soon licensed to preach, and emigrated to Michigan early in 1836; was admitted on trial in the Michigan Conference in 1837, and entered on a career of great usefulness. He served the Church faithfully as pastor and Presiding Elder for thirty-five years. The confidence reposed in him was never betrayed, and the work never languished in his hands. His disease was pulmonary consumption, but he died at his post.

Brother Richard's record is both on earth and on high, for he was one of our most valuable and valued ministers. Possessing more than ordinary natural abilities, well improved by education, he was well adapted to the work of the Christian ministry. Having a strong will and fixedness of purpose, he braved difficulties and was carried forward to great success.

S. Ravenscroft.

S. RAVENSCROFT was born in Staffordshire, England, March 6, 1803. He was born of pious parents. When only eight years old he was converted and united with the Wesleyan Methodists. At eighteen he was licensed to preach, and his labors were very successful. He was married in 1823 to Miss Ann Taylor, of Stoke-upon-Trent. In 1838 he emigrated to the United States. He was a great admirer of republican institutions, and as loyal a citizen as ever breathed the free air of America. In 1839 he was admitted on trial in this Conference, and appointed to Booneville. For the five preceding years he had been employed as a supply. His subsequent appointments were Mount Vernon, New Lebanon, Carlisle, Spencer, Bloomfield, Bowling Green. While on the last-named charge his health failed; he ceased work, and was granted a location at his own request. He moved with his family to Point Commerce, and, while located, supplied Linton and New Albany Circuits, and afterward traveled as a Bible Agent in Clark and Floyd Counties until his health became so poor he had to give up the work entirely. He then moved to Rockport, Ind., where, as a supply, he ended his nine years' service as a local preacher. In 1859 he was re-admitted into this Conference and placed on the superannuated list, which relation he sustained until his death. In 1869 he moved to Worthington, Ind., and in 1870 to Petersburgh, Ind., where he was appointed postmaster, and from whence he was called home October 20, 1871. Disease of the heart was the immediate cause of his death.

Father Ravenscroft was a professor of religion sixty years, and for half a century a preacher of the Gospel. He was a holy man; his faith never faltered, and he trusted in God in the darkest hour. An old-time Methodist, orthodox to the core, he was yet sufficiently progressive to "keep up with the times," and was everywhere recognized as a good, successful preacher and a faithful, popular pastor. He leaves behind him the companion of his youth, three sons, and four daughters. Two of his sons are ministers in the Methodist Episcopal Church—Rev. W. E. Ravenscroft, formerly of this Conference, and Rev. J. B. Ravenscroft, of the Southern Illinois Conference. It can truly be said of Father Ravenscroft, "He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him."

Philip Jacob May, Geo. Schatz, George Andre—3.

1. PHILIP JACOB MAY was born October 31, 1832, at Wahrheim, Nassau, and his earthly career terminated January 22, 1872, in his fortieth year. In early life he was a Rationalist. In 1854 he came to America. By the earnest endeavors and prayers of his relatives, who were members of our Church, he was, through the grace of God, convinced of his errors, found the "pearl of great price," and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church at a camp-meeting held at Lake Creek, Mo. In the year 1860 he received his first appointment in the vineyard of the Lord, from which time he labored in the following fields: Lexington, Mo.; Jefferson City, Mo.; Lyon's Creek, Kan.; Liberty, Mo.; Wyandotte, Kan.; Omaha, and Iowa City. When he commenced his second year's labor in Iowa City he was taken ill, and growing worse, had to cease work early in 1872. He removed to Brunswick, Mo.; but before he had been two weeks in his new home, on January 22, 1872, the wheels of life stood still.

Brother May was a faithful worker, and was especially zealous in his pastoral labors and in the distribution of our literature. In his illness there was never heard from him a word of complaint; he desired to remain longer below only to work for his Lord. He was engaged exclusively with Divine things, and said he wished for his epitaph: "Washed in the blood of the Lamb." With the name of Jesus on his lips he sank into sweet eternal rest.

2. GEORGE SCHATZ finished his course April 5, 1872, at Oregon, Mo., aged forty-three years. He was born of Catholic parentage at Wahlwies, Nassau. While still young he put his trust in God, and often received great peace directly from the Comforter while engaged in earnest prayer, so that, when he grew to riper years, the ceremonies and superstitions of his Church became as a dead-letter to him. In 1849 he emigrated to America. In Looking-glass Prairie, Ill., he found a home at the house of a truly pious Methodist family. The holy walk, the Christian family life, and the warm and practical sermons of Rev. W. Fiegenbaum convinced him soon that there was something in religion which he did not yet possess. He sought and found forgiveness of his sins in the blood of Christ, August 13, 1850, at a camp-meeting. "Now I have received," he himself wrote, "a better absolution than any of the Popes were ever able to give." In 1851 he received license to exhort, and served as a supply in Marthasville, Warren Mission, and Vandalia. In 1853 he was received on trial in the Illinois Conference, and thereafter was appointed as follows: Union Circuit, Oregon, Mo., Nebraska City, Wyandotte, St. Joseph District, Columbus, Brunswick, Lake Creek, and Oregon, Mo., where this plain but faithful servant of the Lord ended his earthly career in triumph.

Brother Schatz's last illness prostrated him so completely that it was almost immediately evident that human aid would be unavailing; but our brother was ready for either life or death. Only four days before his end he received such a revelation of God that he exclaimed, "Never before had I thought that a mortal man could experience such a thing." Just before his death his Presiding Elder asked him, "Brother, are you ready to die?" He answered, "O yes! long ago." Now he is gone; he rests from his labors. On all his appointments he labored with success, gathered many precious souls for the Lord Jesus, and left every-where a large number of Christian friends.

3. JOHN GEORGE ANDRE was born August 22, 1828, in Michlen, Nassau, and died August 19, 1872. In 1846 he landed in New Orleans, and in the following spring settled in Louisville, Ky. In 1848 he was soundly converted, and soon afterward joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, which he loved dearly till his end. In 1849 he married Miss Johanna Helene Hintze, who proved an affectionate and efficient help-meet to him amid the trials of subsequent life. In 1850 he was licensed to preach, and six years later he entered the traveling connection. His appointments were Bloomington, Ill., Beardstown, and Pekin. While at Beardstown he was severely attacked by bleeding of the lungs, which compelled him to retire from active work for two and a half years. His labors in Pekin were greatly enhanced by physical infirmity, and in 1863 he was compelled to bid a final farewell to the work he loved so well. This long-continued and painful lung disease, in connection with severe hemorrhage, finally ended his life. He died in the triumph of faith.

John Bain.

JOHN BAIN was born in the Highlands of Scotland, January 3, 1804, and in 1823 he came to the United States and settled in Saybrook, Ohio. A stranger here, with social habits different from ours, and a strong Scotch accent, his intercourse with his new associates was not without some embarrassment. Not much of promise was seen in the somewhat awkward young stranger. But he was industrious in his every-day business and soon prospered, and, procuring a few valuable books, he devoted the hours of relaxation to mental culture. He was soon recognized as a man of rare worth. A good religious education and a thoughtful temperament, added to his studious habits, had prepared his heart for the reception of the Gospel. He realized his sinfulness, sought and found pardon, and at once began to tell the glad tidings to others. His knowledge of forgiveness of sins was ever clearly defined. He was made local preacher, and for several years did effective service in this relation. He was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference in 1835. His clear comprehension, vigorous understanding, resolute industry, and strong originality soon raised him to an honorable position among the able men of the Conference, which he held till the day of his death.

Brother Bain was a solid preacher. He generally eschewed what would be merely ornamental, ignoring most arbitrary rules for sermonizing, and did not often attempt much in the way of exegesis; but his positions were well taken, and sustained with elaborate convincing arguments. Always instructive, full of the marrow and fatness of the Gospel, his discourse was often truly eloquent. He was an excellent disciplinarian, and was for many years a Presiding Elder, serving on the Clarion, Meadville, Warren, Cleveland, and Painesville Districts. As Trustee of Alleghany College, and also as Agent, in raising the endowment, he did much to advance the cause of education among us, and he will be missed in the annual meetings of the Board as few other members would. For the last two years he had retired from the regular work to care for his tenderly-loved wife, whose health was rapidly declining. He still preached sometimes in neighboring charges, and never before were his words more fully in the demonstration of the Spirit and with power. He returned to Janesville, Wis., where he had laid to rest the beloved companion of his youth, and in a few weeks followed her to the home above. His death, supposed to be from apoplexy, was sudden, alone, and in silence, but we who knew him well can never have a shadow of a doubt that he passed the Jordan safely, and "died to live forever."

J. Crawford, J. Marsee—2.

1. JAMES CRAWFORD was born in Salem, N. Y. He was converted when a small boy, and was licensed to exhort when about eighteen years of age. He was yet small in stature, and would stand upon a chair or bench and exhort with great effect. He was licensed to preach while a student at Oneida Conference Seminary in 1838, and the same year was admitted into the Indiana Conference, and appointed to Paoli Circuit. He was successively stationed at Salem, Lexington, Vevay, Wesley Chapel, Madison, Paris Circuit, Centenary, New Albany, Canaan Circuit, Shelbyville, Laurel, Greensburgh, Lawrenceburgh, Columbus, Rising Sun, Milford Circuit, St. Louis Circuit, Carthage, Brookville, Milton, and Fairland. From 1866 to 1869 he sustained a supernumerary relation to the Conference. In 1870 this relation was changed, and he was made effective and appointed to the St. Paul Circuit. In 1871 he was appointed to Hope Circuit, where he fell, like a hero, at his post of duty. His illness, which he bore patiently, was of five weeks' duration. He adjusted all his business affairs calmly, and at the last, without a struggle, "fell on sleep." He died in the fifty-fifth year of his age and the thirty-fourth of his itinerant ministry.

More than by any other trait Brother Crawford's ministerial character was distinguished by energy. His warm love for Methodist doctrines, his clear head and his stout heart, led him often into the field of polemics. He loved to fight hard battles for his Saviour, but he was tender toward the "little ones," and made an efficient pastor. His great object in life was to save souls, and God blessed him with success. Not long before his death he said: "Tell my brethren of the South-eastern Indiana Conference, 'All is well! no fears beyond.' Tell them 'I love them! I love them! I love them!'"

2. JOSEPH MARSEE was born in Lee County, Va., in 1800. His parents dying while he was yet young, he was taken by friends to Kentucky. He was converted in Knox County in 1821, and was licensed to preach in 1825. In 1826 he was admitted into the Kentucky Conference, and appointed consecutively to Little Sandy Circuit, Lebanon, Barren, Glasgow, Elizabeth, New Castle, Newport, Covington, Lexington, Georgetown, Germantown, Mount Sterling, and Brook-street, Louisville. He was then (in 1840) transferred to the Indiana Conference and appointed as follows: Madison, Danville, Terre Haute, Indianapolis District, Crawfordsville District, La Fayette, and Augusta Circuit, after which he took a superannuated relation. In 1859 he was transferred to this Conference, remaining a superannuate until his death, which took place January 20, 1872.

Brother Marsee was strong in mind and devoted in soul—a good specimen of the old Methodist pioneer. His business abilities were great. He passed through life at peace with God and men, and died in full assurance of hope.

Hiram M. Shaffer, James S. De Lisle, George W. Miller—3.

1. HIRAM M. SHAFFER was born of religious parents in Carroll County, Ohio, in 1804. He studied medicine, graduated, and commenced practice in Paintville, now Mount Eaton, Ohio, when but eighteen years of age. From thence he removed to Wooster, where he was for several years the leading physician. In 1826 he married Miss Margaret Barr, daughter of Col. John Barr, of Wooster. Although having an extensive practice, and considered a skillful physician, his ambition was not satisfied; he pursued a course of study in law, passed his examination, and was admitted to the bar at Sidney, Ohio.

Dr. Shaffer and his wife joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1831. He was licensed to preach in 1832, and received on trial in the Ohio Conference the same year. He filled many important positions in the Church on circuits, stations, and districts. He was several times elected as a delegate to the General Conference. He was ever considered a strong and reliable minister in the several Conferences to which he belonged, a ready debater, and a sound reasoner. His work on Baptism is a valuable production, and has obtained an extensive circulation. Many were converted and united with the Church under his ministry. During the past few years his mind became impaired, and he suffered much from mental depression. He died peacefully near Richwood, Ohio, December 29, 1871. He is with God.

2. JAMES S. DE LISLE was born in Somerset, Ohio, January 15, 1815, of Catholic parents, and by his mother was faithfully taught the doctrines of that Church. In his seventeenth year he was converted under the labors of Rev. J. Donohue, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. In 1843 he was licensed to exhort, and in 1844 to preach. In 1852 he was received on trial in the North Ohio Conference, and when that Conference was divided he became connected with this Conference. He traveled successively the following: Shannon, Allentown, Mount Blanchard, Marseilles, Roundhead, Richwood, Forest, Johnstown, Benton Ridge, and Hill Grove Circuits, to all of which he was returned a second year. An honorable record is his, he having spent nineteen years and six months of faithful labor as a traveling preacher. He was a man of untiring energy. Whatever he was engaged in—preaching, praying, or singing—he did with his might. He was a faithful worker in the Lord's vineyard and an ardent lover of Methodism. He was not without faults. Independent, and somewhat peculiar in his methods, he was sometimes severely judged and misapprehended by his brethren; but he knew his failings and aimed to overcome them, and particularly through the last years of his life his experience of heavenly things ripened, and his Christian character was beyond reproach. His incessant labors in a protracted meeting, which he conducted through the winter, resulted in the disease which so suddenly terminated his life. He died March 24, 1872, in his fifty-seventh year. He died in peace, and rests with God.

3. GEORGE W. MILLER was born near Westminster, Md., in 1826, and died in Pioneer, Ohio, August 10, 1872. He came with his parents to Marion, Ohio, in 1833, and was converted and joined our Church at a camp-meeting when about sixteen years of age. He entered the ministry of the United Brethren Church in his twenty-fifth year, traveling seven consecutive years. He then entered the ministry of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which he continued until death. He was married October 24, 1844, to Miss C. Gruber; but in 1858 his heart was made sad and his house desolate by her death. In 1860 he was married to Mrs. Elizabeth Manning, who survives him.

Brother Miller was an earnest and successful minister, a faithful and beloved pastor, and a kind and indulgent husband and father. His last sickness was short. On Thursday, after preaching with unusual freedom and power at a camp-meeting in Michigan, he was taken ill, and on Saturday evening his soul winged its flight to the mansions God has prepared for his people.

W. M'Knight, M. B. Camburn —2.

1. WILLIAM M'KNIGHT died in Greenbush, Mich., March 28, 1872. He was born in Rootstown, Portage County, Ohio, in 1815. When he was two years old his father passed away from earth. He was early brought to feel the need of a Saviour, and when but thirteen years of age was converted; but he afterward lost from his heart the consciousness of acceptance. After living in a backslidden state for two or three years he was again awakened and reclaimed, and reunited with the Church in 1835. He was soon made class-leader and exhorter, and in 1847 was licensed to preach. Soon after this he rented his farm, and went to school to prepare himself for what he felt should be his life-work. But his wife sickened and died, leaving him with two motherless children, and he found it impossible at that time to continue his education. In 1849 he removed to Michigan and settled upon a farm in Ovid, and soon after was employed by the Presiding Elder upon Rochester Circuit. In 1854 he was admitted on trial into this Conference, and appointed to Talmage Circuit, where, his health failing him, at the close of the year he was discontinued at his own request. In 1853 he was ordained to Deacon's orders, and that and the next year was employed on "supply" work. In 1854 he re-entered the Conference. The charges he filled were Boston, Flat River, Kelloggsville, Laphamville, Sparta, Woodland, Ovid, Bengal, and Bangor. He traveled three years as a supply, fifteen years in connection with the Conference, and was superannuated three years. He was married twice: first to Miss Rachel Chapman, of Rootstown, Ohio; secondly, to Miss Lois Richards, of Palmyra, Ohio.

Brother M'Knight was a faithful, earnest Christian minister and a good pastor—always ready to do the Master's work or suffer the Master's will. During his last sickness, which was protracted for several weeks and very painful, he never murmured or complained; but was borne above the trial by that grace which the great Head of the Church gives to his faithful ones. "If you live to go to Conference," said he to a ministerial friend, "you will have to answer when my name is called. Tell the brethren that that Gospel which I have preached to others is a great comfort to me now. 'I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith.'" He remained in that blessed frame of mind until his happy spirit took its flight to join the heavenly hosts above.

2. MYRON B. CAMBURN was born in 1820. He was converted to God at the early age of twelve, and immediately joined our Church. He was a member of the Church for nearly forty years. He was commissioned to preach in 1844, and was received into this Conference on trial in 1846. The following were his appointments: St. Joseph, Kalamazoo, Allegan, Grand Rapids, Flint, Romeo, Battle Creek, Grass Lake, Marshall, Parma, Homer, Litchfield, Grand Rapids, Detroit, Edwardsburgh, Lawton, Pokagon, Reading, Constantine, Burr Oak, Centerville, and the Grand Traverse District, where he terminated his labors.

In all of the places where he was stationed Brother Camburn acquitted himself as a true and able minister of Christ. His own words tell of his faithfulness: "After a term of twenty-seven years of almost uninterrupted service as a Christian pastor, I am enjoying my first vacation. During that time I have never lost more than two Sabbaths in succession from sickness or any other cause. I have performed a large amount of extra labor, and begin to feel keenly the need of rest."

Brother Camburn was one of our most indefatigable laborers. He knew no weariness. For six years he served as secretary to his Conference with a devotedness and ability seldom equaled. At the last session he was elected as one of the delegates to the General Conference. As a husband and father he was a model of consistent tenderness. As a Christian he was fully consecrated to God and his service, recognizing in all things the high obligations which its profession involves. As a minister, he was endowed with more than ordinary gifts and graces. His clear perception fully comprehended his subject in all its parts, which he clearly illustrated and forcibly impressed upon the minds of his hearers, and not only convinced the judgment but reached the hearts of his congregation. He loved the doctrine of holiness—professed it in his life, adorned it in his profession, and preached it to others from his pulpit. To the last he was conscious, though unable to articulate. On the day of his death (Oct. 17, 1872) he desired to be assisted from his bed that he might once more get upon his knees in the attitude of prayer. He knelt and prayed, committing himself, his family, and the Church to God, and arose to kneel in prayer no more. His last expression was, "I think that with me all is over." He died calmly, and without doubt fully prepared for the summons that suddenly called him from labor to reward. His loss is keenly felt not only by the entire district on which he was appointed to labor, but by the whole Church within our bounds.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Joseph M. Bly,* Alfred A. Rigby—2.

A. A. RIGBY died July 9, 1872. Of the place and date of his birth, and of his early history, nothing is known. He was a brave sordier in the Union army during the late war, and it was while in active military service that he first connected himself with the Church of Christ. Soon after his return home he was licensed to preach in Mount Vernon, Iowa. He attended Cornell College for some time, but for want of means did not graduate. In 1867 he was married, and in 1869 removed to Clark County, Iowa, and settled near Liberty, where he engaged in teaching and farming. During these years he was very industrious as a local preacher, and his earnestness and amiability made him eminently popular and useful wherever he was known. In 1870 he was received on trial in this Conference and appointed to Wheeling Circuit. Here he was well received, and his labors were blessed. But overwork and overstudy brought on disease. His health failed rapidly, and it was with difficulty he reached Sioux City, the seat of the ensuing Conference. He was appointed to Newburn Circuit, and began his labors there; but it soon became evident that his days were numbered. He remarked to Rev. John Daily in January last, "I feel that last year I drew too heavily upon my capital, and whether I shall ever regain it I know not; but be this as it may, I did it ignorantly, and do not feel condemned for my course. I did nothing more than the openings seemed to demand at my hands. If my disease proves fatal I have the consolation that I did not rust out, and while God gives me strength I will spend it in crying, 'Behold the Lamb!'" On parting with Brother Daily, who had labored ten days with him in a protracted meeting, he said, "I think we are parting for the last time. We will never enjoy another meeting together on earth. I shall soon be called to my reward. I have no fears. All the pain I suffer is that I am poor and have nothing to leave to support my wife and two helpless children. But the Lord has provided for others, and I trust he will for mine." He resigned his charge in February and went to his friends at Mount Vernon, where he ended his days in holy triumph.

Charles F. Wright, John P. Quigley—2.

1. CHARLES F. WRIGHT was born in Canfield, Ohio, in 1814. Converted in early life, he filled the various offices of class-leader, steward, and Sabbath-school superintendent before he was twenty-one years of age. He joined the Rock River Conference at the age of thirty-five, and was stationed as follows: Cherry Valley, Chemung, Kaneville, Kingston, Lodi, Warren, Light-House, and Lee Center, when he was transferred to this Conference and stationed at St. Anthony, after which he returned to Rock River Conference and was appointed to Hanover, Council Hill, and Galena. He then returned to Minnesota and settled in Lynd, in which place he organized a class and took charge of the Redwood Falls Circuit, where he was laboring when exposure to the severity of extreme cold brought on a sickness from which he never recovered. His sickness, though long and painful, was borne with great resignation and patience, and those who visited him on his death-bed felt it a great privilege to enjoy his deeply spiritual and edifying conversation. He was a "good man, full of faith and the Holy Ghost." He departed in great peace, October 5, 1871, from the Church militant here to the Church triumphant above.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

J. P. QUIGLEY, son of Rev. John and Irene A. Quigley, was born in Ohio in 1836. He was educated in the Ohio Wesleyan University. At the age of fourteen he was converted. He began his ministry eight years ago, remaining in the local ranks four years. In 1868 he joined this Conference and was appointed to the Two River Circuit. His next appointment was Taylor's Falls, where he labored with great earnestness and success. Last year he was sent to Superior City. Having a great interest in the temperance reform, and a deep sympathy for the victims of strong drink, he commenced the publication of a spirited temperance paper, The Appeal, which he conducted for a short time with great ability. Early in May he seemed "anointed for his burial." On the Thursday evening preceding his death he spoke to the people on the subject of "full salvation" with such pathos and power as to surprise them all, declaring he "was all ready to go at his Master's bidding." The destroyer came suddenly, but found him prepared. On his deathbed he said, "I never knew before so well what it is to be lost in God; to have no will of my own," and then tried to sing, "There is a beautiful land." Still later he said, "All is right; perfectly clear." In this triumphant spirit he passed, May 16, 1872, from the toils of earth to his "home in heaven."

L. P. Miller, J. Shinn, John Seys, Isaac Neff—4.

1. LEVI PILKETON MILLER was born in Union County, Pa., January 8, 1809. His parents were worthy members of the Methodist Episcopal Church, by whom he was brought up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. In his sixteenth year he joined the Church on probation, and diligently sought justification by faith in Jesus Christ. His earnest prayers were finally answered by a positive assurance of his own salvation, and a strong conviction that it was his duty to preach the Gospel to others. He asked his father to give him the privilege of gleaning in his wheat fields, so that he might procure religious books, and after his daily work was over he raked those fields by moonlight to gather the means to procure religious books to qualify him for his life mission. With these earnings he procured Dr. Clarke's Commentary, that mine of Gospel truth, and other valuable works, of which he made good use. In 1828 he entered the academy in Milton, Pa. He was appointed class-leader, then exhorter, and finally local preacher. In 1830 he was admitted on probation into the Ohio Conference. He was stationed in turn in Athens, Norwich, Georgetown, Madisonville, Sydney, Chester, New Haven, South Charleston, Wilmington, Franklin, White Oak, Madisonville, Amelia, Williamsburgh, Lockland, West White Oak, Amelia, Milford, New Carlisle, Raysville, Batavia, Madisonville, Miami, Jamestown, and Moscow. In 1864 he entered the army as chaplain. In 1861 he gave five months of devoted successful service to the "Buckeye Mission," in Dayton; but most of the years of his superannuation his health was too poor to allow him to work. His faith was uniformly clear. On his death-bed he sent to his fellow-ministers a message of love, and asserted triumphantly that the future was all bright. In great peace he died.

Brother Miller was a symmetrically-developed Christian. His characteristic humility, modesty, and conscientiousness kept his profession quite within the circle of his attainments. He was an amiable, faithful, prudent, magnanimous colleague, and a patient toiler in the Master's vineyard. He joined the serpent with the dove, and cast the sting away. His ministry was a glorious success, and thousands will rise up and call him blessed.

2. JOHN SHINN was born in Warren County, Ohio, March 2, 1824, and died at West Mansfield, Ohio, September 26, 1871. His father was a devoted Methodist and a class-leader. At the age of fifteen Brother Shinn was converted, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. A year afterward he removed to Cincinnati. During his residence there he was an earnest and zealous Christian, and a useful member of the Church. In 1854 he was received into this Conference. He was appointed successively to the following charges: Venice Circuit, West Union, Moscow, Sinking Springs Circuit, Clarksville, Highland, and Sinking Springs again. Before the close of this Conference year he went into the service of the Christian Commission, and soon after entered the army as chaplain. After the war was over he was appointed County Agent of the American Bible Society for South-western Ohio, in which office he served one year. In 1866 he was appointed to New Lexington, next to Centenary Circuit, then to North Lewisburgh Circuit. While serving on each of the two last-mentioned charges he was prostrated by paralysis. So severe was the first attack that the Presiding Elder earnestly endeavored to induce him to take a superannuated relation, but without avail. The second attack almost deprived him of speech. But he rallied, and insisted on prosecuting his ministerial work. His colleague, out of kindness, sought to dissuade him from attending and laboring in revivals, and at last refused to inform him where and when they would be held; but our indomitable brother would mount his horse, and ride about the circuit until he found the place where the meetings were being held. So long as he could induce friends to assist him to the house of God he was found in his place as a worshiper. On Thursday before he died he was heard to articulate with unusual distinctness the words, "A brighter world than this," and, after a pause, these words, "Jesus, Jesus, Saviour!" On Friday morning, as his wife approached him, she heard him say, "Father; mother; angels!" A few moments afterward he said distinctly, "Jerusalem." Several times he said, "Halleluia! Glory in the highest! Jesus is worthy!" On Monday he exclaimed, "Mother! mother!" These were his last intelligible utterances. A marked characteristic of Brother Shinn was his manliness—and yet this term describes but feebly that noble, generous, and magnanimous spirit which gave form and shape to all his words and actions. One who knew him long and intimately said, "A nobler man than John Shinn never lived." He was a very kind and affectionate husband and father. Love, tenderness, and joy dwelt in his household. His preaching was acceptable and effective, his will indomitable, his life pure, his end peace.

3. JOHN SEYS, D.D., died Feb. 9, 1872. He was born March 30, 1799, in the island of Santa Cruz, West Indies, of a family that had been for many years resident of the islands, and that occupied many positions of honor and trust under the Danish and Dutch governments. Subsequent to his marriage, and in the same year—1821—he became a member of the Wesleyan Methodist Church, in the Island of St. Eustatius, a Church which at that time was deemed by the dominant race as only belonging to, and doing mission work among, the negroes; but finding nothing like vital religion in the Established Church, he did not hesitate to cast his lot among these despised followers of the precious Saviour whom he had learned to love.

At that time, with the exception of the English missionary, he was the only white man belonging to the Methodist Church in the island, and that, too, in a community from which his uncle, Gov. Runnels, had banished the Rev. Dr. Coke for preaching Methodist doctrines to the negroes. Soon, in spite of all the obstacles in his way, and the opposition of friends, he became the superintendent of the Sabbath-school, class-leader, licensed exhorter, and in 1825, local preacher. In 1829 he was ordained, being the first white West Indian who became a preacher in the Methodist Church, and was called upon to take the place of an English missionary who had died in the island of Tortola. Circumstances in this same year directed his attention to this country, and with full testimonials and credentials from the chairman of the district, the governor of the island, and many other gentlemen, he came to the United States. Soon after his arrival he joined the Oneida Conference, and was appointed to Ogdensburgh Station, N. Y. From there he went to Canton Circuit, in 1832. He was appointed missionary among the Oneida Indians in 1833.

In 1834 the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, and Moravian missionaries in Liberia, West Africa, had all died from the African fever, or had been compelled to fly for their lives. Dr. Seys was selected at this critical time by the Bishops to attempt once more to plant the banner of Christ in that inhospitable climate, and if he failed, the mission was to be abandoned. He sailed for his post of duty, as superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal Church Missions in West Africa, in the summer of 1834, locating at Monrovia, Liberia, one of the deadliest points on the coast, and which had been abandoned by all white missionaries who had not fallen. Having fully established the mission, planting Churches and schools at all points within his reach, he, with his devoted wife, both shattered in health, returned to this country in 1841, leaving four children buried in Africa. After his arrival in the United States for one year he traveled extensively, visiting the Churches and taking up large collections in aid of the mission. Compelled by the ill health of his family, in 1842 he abandoned his mission work, and was appointed to Wilkesbarre station, Pennsylvania. In 1843 he was requested by Bishop Waugh to return to Liberia in his old capacity, the white men of his Church having again all died, or been compelled to leave in order to save their lives.

In 1845 he returned to this country, resigned his connection with the mission, and, joining the New York Conference, supplied various appointments until 1850, when still having the interest of the colored race at heart, at the earnest request of the Maryland State Colonization Society he became their traveling agent, locating in Baltimore, where he remained six years. In 1856 he came to Springfield, Ohio, having been appointed agent for the Colonization Society in the States of Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois. In this same year he was requested again to go to Africa, to select and locate a settlement back from the sea-coast, and away from the malarious influences of the tidal rivers. This work he accomplished, after much dangerous toil and privation, founding Careysburgh, erecting there as the first building a chapel, and calling every day every one of the inhabitants, colonists and natives, to prayer. From this time until 1870 he was almost uninterruptedly connected with the country and work in which he had spent so many years of his remarkable active life, in one capacity or another.

As United States Agent for recaptured Africans taken from the slave ships, he has had on his hands at one time, demanding of him food, shelter, clothing, and protection, four thousand of these unfortunates, and he acted at the same time in the capacity of United States Consul, the white man occupying this position having died.

In 1866, having returned to this country, and being desirous of devoting all his energies and life to benefit the race which for over two hundred years men of his own family had held in bondage, he took charge of Clark Chapel and colored school, at Nashville, Tenn. Before he had been there one year, President Johnson requested him to return to Africa as United States Consul and Minister Resident to the Republic of Liberia, the former Consul having died at his post. This office he filled with great acceptance to his government and that of Liberia, which most gladly received him as the tried and true friend of the black man, until 1870, when he returned to this country, to spend his declining months and days in the society of his family, whom he loved so fondly, and who now mourn their loss. Brother Seys at the time of his death was a member of the Cincinnati Conference, having been transferred to the same, in accordance with the request of the Conference, expressed at its last session by a rising vote.

Brother Seys was a man of exquisite neatness and grace of person and manner. To him politeness was natural and courtesy a spontaneity. He was gifted with admirable talents and a ready and agreeable utterance, while his soul was charged with impassioned feeling and sympathy. To this was added education, culture, and general intelligence. These qualities and endowments of mind and heart made him a very successful minister of Christ. In social intercourse he impressed all as a gentleman of modest pretensions, refined tastes and feelings, amiable disposition, and a magnanimity of soul seldom witnessed. Envy seemed to have no place in his heart, and his lips were not allowed to breathe the mildew of detraction. His communications to and on behalf of his brother ministers were full of kindness and encouragement.

As a man in trust, he was true and heroic. Like Livingstone, he seemed to delight in deeds of noble daring and bold adventure. Like Paul, he continually said by life and action, "Neither count I my life dear unto myself." When he was sent as a missionary to Liberia it was generally understood that Africa could only be redeemed by an immense sacrifice of life. The dying words of Melville B. Cox, his predecessor and the proto-martyr, were prophetic: "Let a thousand fall before Africa be given up." When, therefore, Dr. Seys sailed for that malarious coast, he deliberately sailed into the jaws of death. He had reason to believe that he would be required to preach to Africa more by the tender eloquence of his grave and buried ashes of his wife and children than by his life and lips.

As a Christian, Brother Seys was deeply spiritual. He loved the subject, and enjoyed the experience of personal holiness. Having a loving nature, full of tender sensibilities, his enjoyments were highly emotional, and yet deep, uniform, and constant.

For several months before his death Brother Seys was a great sufferer, but he was enabled by grace to bear his sufferings patiently, and to rejoice in the midst of the keenest "with joy unspeakable and full of glory." About an hour before his death one said to him, "What is now the outlook?" He said, with all the emphasis he could command, "Bright! glorious!" The last intelligent expression of his life was, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me."

4. ISAAC NEFF was born in Pennsylvania, September 9, 1824. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1842. He was appointed class-leader in 1845, licensed to exhort in 1846, and to preach in 1848. Next year he was received on trial in this Conference and appointed in the following order: Ironton, Lewisburgh, Eaton, Goshen, New Richmond, Germantown and Springborough, Winchester, Harrison, North Bend Circuit, Sharonville, Lynchburgh, and Sinking Springs. On this his last charge his labors were gloriously successful; more than two hundred were converted. God saw fit to afflict Brother Neff severely before he called him home; his heart was almost broken when his only son was taken from him by death. His sorrow brought on nervous prostration, and under a combination of physical ailments the strong man sank to his grave. On March 12, in the midst of a sermon, his strength gave way and he was compelled to cease. After that he was able to perform but little ministerial labor. A short time before his last illness he had sought and found a richer experience than he had before attained, and his holy life was a constant indorsement of his profession. When asked on his death-bed, "Does the religion you have preached to others sustain you now?" he answered promptly, "Yes."

Brother Neff was an earnest Christian, always at his post of duty. He never shunned to declare the whole counsel of God. In his earnestness for souls he often said, "I never want to be a superannuated man. When I cease to be able to preach I want to cease to breathe." Although this desire was not granted in full, his superannuation was short. His life had been uniformly active and eminently useful, and without doubt he is now crowned and glorified.

W. H. H. DUGGAN was born in Sevier County, East Tennessee, July 3, 1815. He was united in marriage to Miss Matilda Jane Brown in 1837. He professed religion at Pine Grove, Blant County, Tenn., in 1841. He joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and was admitted into the traveling connection in 1855. In 1862 circumstances compelled him to locate, but in 1865 he was readmitted into the traveling connection, not, however, to work effectively as before, but to patiently bide his time as a veteran soldier, worn out and waiting the call of the Master to enter the world of reward. On the 11th of August, 1872, he fell asleep in Jesus. His Christian life was so unwaveringly pure and useful as to certify his eternal blessedness.

T. M. Goodfellow, W. Vallette, C. French—3.

1. T. M. GOODFELLOW was born May 26, 1823, converted in early life, and commenced traveling under the Presiding Elder in Pennsylvania, and joined the Baltimore Conference in 1848. In 1852 he was married to Miss Bessie M.

Milton, and in 1854 was transferred to the Iowa Conference, and labored efficiently until 1859, when, on account of failing health, he located and settled in Council Bluffs. In 1861 he was appointed chaplain in the United States army, and served in this capacity until the close of the war. He came to Chicago in 1868. During his long exposures and arduous duties in the South his health had become much impaired, but with rest and change of climate he soon recovered, and in October, 1870, went as a supply to Dunton, and in 1871 was received into this Conference and re-appointed to Dunton, where, as in all his other appointments, he was surrounded by many warm friends, and was very successful in building up the interests of the Church. In the midst of his usefulness, on the evening of December 29, 1871, while returning with his wife and two youngest children from a friendly visit to a neighbor, they were all thrown from a bridge, falling some twenty feet upon the ice. Brother Goodfellow was almost instantly killed, and his wife seriously injured; but the children escaped unharmed.

Brother Goodfellow will be remembered by all who knew him as a faithful and deeply spiritual preacher and pastor, a warm friend, and a kind and loving father and husband.

2. William Vallette entered the itinerancy in the Illinois Conference in 1839. In 1840 he was transferred to this Conference, and in the following year was ordained Deacon. In 1846 he was prostrated with hemorrhage of the lungs, and incapacitated for further ministerial labor. In early life he had studied medicine, and his acquirements he now made available. He began practice at Elgin, and soon achieved great reputation as a successful physician. During the remainder of his life his name was retained on the Minutes of the Conference as a superannuated member. His health never fully recovered, and during his later years he was a great sufferer; but he was always happy, day and night, rejoicing with joy that is unspeakable and full of glory.

3. Charles French died at his home in Waukegan, Ill., September 13, 1872, aged seventy-one. He was born in Sussex, England, and was converted in youth. When but eighteen he received license to preach, and for thirty years did good service as a Local Preacher. He came to this country in 1849. In 1851 he was admitted into this Conference and appointed to Wheeling, Conn. For twenty years our brother received his appointment from the Bishop of his Conference, and as a faithful minister did his work for the glory of God and the interests of Zion. In the year 1870, his health failing, he was obliged to resign his charge and take a superannuated relation. The last two months of his life he suffered greatly, but he bore it all with Christian fortitude.

The Christian graces gave beauty to Brother French's life and character, and he illustrated their excellences in all his intercourse with men. He loved his brethren of the Conference dearly, and talked of them frequently during his illness. On his death-bed he said: "I want all my friends to know that it is well with me; that the blessed Saviour I have preached to others is with me now in my last hours." And, trusting in the merits of Christ alone, he sweetly entered into rest.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Micah Seager, Manley Tooker, John E. Robie, Robert O. Wilson—4.

1. MICAH SEAGER was the eldest son of Micah and Lois Seager. He was born in Simsbury, Conn., July, 1790, and died May 26, 1872, being nearly eighty-two years of age. In 1816 he was converted to God, and never lost the blessed assurance of faith during the fifty-eight years of his Christian experience. He immediately joined the Church, and was soon licensed to preach. In the spring of 1817 he went to Connecticut, the home of his boyhood, with a younger brother, (Aurora,) who was beginning to preach, to visit a sister, who was rapidly sinking to the grave. While waiting upon their dying sister the two brothers commenced a series of meetings among their early neighbors and acquaintances in school-houses and private dwellings, which resulted in one of the most powerful and extensive revivals which, up to that time, had ever been known in that part of New England. It is worthy of note that, of the number brought to Christ in that revival, some half a dozen became ministers of the Gospel, one or two of whom are still living. In 1818 Brother Seager was received on trial in the Genesee Conference in a class of thirty-three, all of whom except Dr. G. Fillmore, W. W. Rundell, and Dr. Z. Paddock have joined the Church above. His first appointment was Caledonia Circuit; his next Dansville. This, on many accounts, he always regarded as one of the best years of his life. His labors were almost incessant, preaching nearly every day, and traveling on horseback through a hilly region of new country, and yet his health, which had before been very precarious, daily improved. Glorious revivals prevailed through the circuit almost the entire year. That year, besides being rich in spiritual manifestations, seems to have been specially providential in forming a crisis in his physical condition, and laid the foundation of health so improved that the consumptive invalid, expecting to die before his probation in the Conference should terminate, performed more than thirty years of effective service afterward. He was subsequently stationed at Buffalo and Black Rock, Caledonia Circuit, Rochester, Perry, Genesee District, Bloomfield Circuit, Warsaw Circuit, Batavia, Alexander and Attica, Leroy, Buffalo District, Lima and West Mendon, West Bloomfield, Lima, Le Roy, Churchville and Chili, Parma, Byron, Stafford, Elba, Churchville and Chili. This last charge he served in 1852–53; from that time until his death he was superannuated, a relation which he had been compelled to fill for a year at a time on two previous occasions.

Brother Seager has left a bright record in his Conference. As a pastor his great aim was to lead sinners to Christ, and to build up believers upon their most holy faith, and multitudes will rise up in the last great day to call him blessed. As a Presiding Elder he was wise in counsel, discreet and safe in administration, and unflinchingly faithful in the discharge of the high trusts committed to his hands. He possessed talents as a preacher of a high order. The closing scene of his life is declared by those who witnessed it to have been indescribably sublime. With intellect scarcely dimmed by age, with a faith which had been gathering strength and steadiness for more than half a century, with that perfect love that casts out fear, the veteran minister of Jesus enters the valley to find it illuminated by the presence and glory of God. So peacefully and triumphantly did he pass away that it seemed more like translation than dying. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them."

2. MANLY TOOKER was born in Lansing, Cayuga County, N. Y., May 28, 1799, and died in Chicago, Ill., December 30, 1871. His ancestry was Methodistic, and he was early and strongly impressed with the faith and the predilections of his parents. In 1820, at the age of twenty-one, we find him at the door of the Genesee Conference, a candidate for admission on trial. At that time the Genesee Conference included all Western New York and the Canadas. The qualities of Brother Tooker soon brought him into notice among his compeers, and designated him as a man of mark. His religious experience was sound and clear; his mental faculties active and vigorous; his benevolent sensibilities tender; his imagination playful; his wit apt and natural; his delivery free, and his bearing fearless. His popularity soon placed him in the front rank of availability, influence, and usefulness. In whatever sphere he acted he was always faithful, and for many years one of the leading men of his conference. Twice he has represented his brethren in General Conference. His pastoral charges were Cortland, Scipio, Marcellus, Litchfield, Cayuga, Auburn, Geneva, Penn Yan, Sweden and Brockport, Seneca Lake District, Rochester District, Rochester East Station, Ontario District, Bible Agent, Rushville, Canandaigua, Phelps, Pittsford, superannuated one year, Victor, Honeoye, Rush, and from 1862 until he died he was superannuated. It was pleasing to see the ripening of Christian virtue and grace in his later years. With all his high-toned Methodism he was possessed of a broad catholicity of spirit, and truly "added to brotherly kindness charity." As his health declined the inner man was renewed, and many were the words of triumph and of peaceful trust which he spoke. Few have been called to suffer more; few have been more graciously sustained. "I am going," said he to his faithful, loving wife; "I hope you will come soon." "I am glad," said he on another occasion, "that I have got one day nearer heaven." He was taken to Chicago to die with his children, and consented to be buried there on that account, and because Drs. Dempster and Hamline were there. Blessed shall be the day when all this severed brotherhood shall be gathered home!

3. JOHN EDWARD ROBIE was born in Hanover, N. H., June 19, 1811. When but ten years old he was apprenticed to the trade of a printer, which business he followed until nineteen years of age, when he was converted at Utica, N. Y., and this proved to be, as in most instances, the eventful period of his life. He now, almost immediately, turned his attention to a better preparation for the ministry, to which he felt called, and after spending some time at the Cazenovia Seminary, he entered the Oneida Conference in 1834, and was appointed to the following charges: Onondaga, Marcellus, Fabius, New York Mills, Skaneateles, and Auburn. In 1840, in accordance with what to him seemed a providential call, he started the Northern Christian Advocate. In 1843 he disposed of this paper, and commenced the publication of the Genesee Evangelist, at Rochester, N. Y. Disposing of this in 1850, he established the Buffalo Christian Advocate, which he successfully managed until the breaking out of the war, in 1861, when he entered the army as Chaplain of the Twenty-first Regiment New York Volunteers, and remained faithful in this position until the expiration of the term of service, when with his regiment he came home. Not long after his return he was appointed Presiding Elder of the Buffalo District, on which he labored with earnest effort and untiring zeal for nearly four years. In the fall of 1869 he became one of the proprietors and editors of the Buffalo Christian Advocate, in which position he continued to work with his usual promptness and devotion until within a few weeks of his death, which occurred suddenly May 26, 1872.

Brother Robie was genial and hearty in his friendships, benevolent almost to a fault, always ready to go on calls to visit the sick and comfort the dying. As a preacher he was successful; many precious revivals were the result of his early labors. As a religious journalist, in many respects he excelled. He loved the Church, and worked hard for its prosperity, and though he died suddenly he fell with the armor on.

4. ROBERT O. WILSON was born in Richmond, Ontario, (Canada,) October 19, 1839, and died in Rochester, N. Y., April 12, 1872, aged a little more than thirty-three years. He was converted to God, through the influence and prayers of his mother, at the age of eleven years. At twenty-three he joined the Wesleyan Conference in Canada, but, in accordance with the usage of that Conference in reference to young men, he did not immediately enter upon his itinerant work, but was permitted to remain in college at Cobourg for four years. He then entered upon the work of the ministry—a man of God, eminently qualified for his high and holy mission. His appointments in Canada West were Newcastle, Whitby, Markham, Mansverse Mission, and Armond Circuit. In 1869 he was received into the East Genesee Conference, and appointed to Macedon, which he had served as supply the previous year. In 1870 he was appointed to Corn Hill Church, Rochester, and was re-appointed to the same charge the following year, during which he was removed to the Church triumphant.

Robert O. Wilson was emphatically a Christian: his cultured intellect, pure heart, and earnest life were all consecrated to God and the cause of humanity. He was a minister that needed not to be ashamed, dividing the word of God, giving to each a portion in due season. Under his ministry Christians were quickened, backsliders reclaimed, sinners converted, the Church edified, and God honored. He fell a martyr to his burning zeal in his life-mission. Many will rise up in the last day and bless God for the faithful and earnest ministry of Robert O. Wilson. His end was triumphant. He fought the good fight, kept the faith, finished his course, and is now crowned with glorious immortality.

A. Callender, T. Wilcox, R. B. Curtis, E. W. Kirkham, J. Hill—5.

1. AURORA CALLENDER died in Pinckneyville, Ill., October 23, 1871. He was born March 7, 1798, in Shoreham, Vt. When he was eleven years of age his father moved from Vermont to Cumberland County, Pa. Aurora was converted in 1818 and became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Harrisburgh, Pa. He was licensed as a local preacher in 1825. In 1828 he moved to Ohio and joined the Pittsburgh Conference. He remained there until 1837, when he was transferred to the Erie Conference, which had been organized the year before. In 1849 he came to Wisconsin Conference, and was appointed consecutively to Sylvania, Geneva and Elkhorn, Union, Hazel Green, and Dodgeville. By the division in 1856 he became a member of the West Wisconsin Conference, and was appointed Presiding Elder of Mineral Point District. In 1857 he was transferred back to this Conference and made Presiding Elder of the Norwegian Mission District. In 1858 he was appointed to Clinton Charge. From 1859 to 1863 he was Agent for the American Colonization Society, and from 1863 to the close of life was superannuated. He died of typhoid fever, after a very short illness.

Brother Callender was a pioneer Methodist preacher. He began his ministry when circuits were large, support poor, and appointments almost daily. As old age pressed upon him his zeal did not abate. During his superannuation he preached nearly every Sabbath, and often through the week. He was a man of robust physical power and well proportioned, capable of enduring great fatigue, and his strong body was animated with a strong rugged soul. He was a sound, instructive preacher, trustworthy as a disciplinarian, and devoted to Methodism. Having finished his course, and having kept the faith, he was fully prepared to receive the crown of life.

2. THOMAS WILCOX died near Elkhorn, Wis., April 19, 1872. He was born in 1811; converted when twenty years of age, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Six years afterward he commenced to preach. In 1838 he united with the Oneida Conference, but was transferred to the Wyoming Conference, in which he traveled until 1856, when, on account of ill-health, he became superannuated and moved to Wisconsin. He settled at Sheboygan Falls, and supplied that work under the Elder. In the same year he was transferred to this Conference. During his ministry here he did a good work for the Master, and many were converted through his instrumentality. In 1862 he again became superannuated, settled for some time at Fond du Lac, and then at Oconomowoc. Six years ago he moved to Elkhorn, where he died in peace.

Brother Wilcox was a man of strong mind, a good preacher, earnest in exhortation, and powerful in prayer. About an hour and a half before he died he said to his pastor that the "old covenant which he had made with his God was good then," and that he was learning by experience what he never knew before—the triumph of faith. That faith carried him through to the promised land.

3. REUBEN B. CURTIS was born in Lisbon, Me., November 11, and died in Appleton, Wis., May 21, 1872. He was converted in Kingfield, Me., in 1830, and at once identified himself with the Methodist Church. He was received into the Maine Conference in 1845. In 1862 he was transferred to this Conference. In the East he served the Churches at Bingham Circuit, Corinth Circuit, Owen Station, Frankfort Station, Searsport Station, Brick Chapel, Bangor, Bangor District, and Brick Chapel, Bangor, again. In the West his appointments were Janesville Station and Delavan. In 1868 he took a superannuated relation, which he held till his death.

Brother Curtis was no ordinary man. His mind was clear, discriminating, and logical. His grasp of the great truths of the Gospel was giant-like, and the deep and delicate sympathies of his heart placed him on the side of suffering and oppressed humanity always. His imagination was wonderful, and in preaching he sometimes overwhelmed his audiences with his original and powerful imagery. With such an emotional nature as he had, it is not strange if his oratorical flights sometimes astonished his more normal brethren. He was sometimes critical, but always admired, honored, and loved. His sermons at Corinth camp-meeting on "The Sin and Results of Procrastination," and at the Conference held in Calais, on "The Loss of the Soul," can never be forgotten by those who heard them. And his speeches in Hampden, Me., soon after the rebellion broke out, as well as a missionary speech in Kenosha, Wis., have seldom been excelled by any orator in modern times. An early disaster broke the strength of his once vigorous frame, and thenceforth he had to struggle with a shattered constitution. But for this he doubtless would have risen to the highest positions in our ministry. Domestic bereavements of unusual severity and frequency, and increasing ill-health, for a time almost crushed his spirit; and, talented and strong in faith as he was, it seemed as if sorrow upon sorrow would make his poor bleeding heart give way. But in his affliction he turned to God for support, and to him, as to all, strength according to his day was granted. Patient endurance and triumphant faith marked his last hours, and he is now resting from his labors and rejoicing in that heavenly home where God wipes all tears from the eyes of his loved ones.

4. E. W. KIRKHAM died in Minneapolis, Minn., May 2, 1872. He was born in Brombo, near Wrexham, North Wales. He came to this country in 1849, and was converted, in 1857, at Zanesville, Ohio. Uniting with the Methodist Episcopal Church, in about a year he received a local preacher's license, and subsequently uniting with the Ohio Conference he was appointed to the Columbus Mission, Pomeroy, and the Second Church, Marietta. In the fall of 1865 he came to Racine, Wis., for the benefit of his health, supplying the pulpit of the First Presbyterian Church of that city until the next ensuing session of this Conference. Next year he was formally transferred and stationed at Whitewater. In 1868 he was stationed at Janesville. Here his health—both of body and mind—failed disastrously; and when under careful medical treatment his reason was restored, his soul was burdened with a painful weight of despondency. But God had not forgotten him, and at Delaware Quarterly Conference, held in May, he received so gracious a manifestation of the divine presence and favor as to dispel every doubt. Two months before his death he wrote from Minneapolis, where he spent the last eight months of his life: "My own health is constantly improving, so that I hope some day to take my place on the walls of Zion. My spiritual horizon grows brighter. I shall never forget Delavan quarterly meeting, that love-feast, and the wonderful display of God's mercy to my poor soul. The best of all is, it lasts, it continues. There are days now that I can scarcely tell where I am; I feel as if I were walking on the boundaries of the spirit-land. How often do I sing,

'The men of grace have found,
Glory begun below.'

As I write my soul is full of glory and of God." His last illness was of about ten days' duration. So tenaciously did he cling to life, and so little was his death expected—until he suddenly became unconscious—that of "dying testimony" he left but little; but his record in this regard was distinct and positive. In his pulpit and platform ministrations there was an impetuosity of earnest utterance, prompted by the deep emotions of his own heart, which, while it often held as by a spell the mind and conscience of his hearers, bore heavily on his enfeebled body. But his years of labor are done, and his eternity of rest begun.

5. JOHN HILL was born in County Down, Ireland, January 14, 1834, and died in Milwaukee, May 1, 1872. His parents were devout members of the Episcopal Church, and with their children came to this country, and settled near Bristol, Ind., in 1846. They both died the same year. The subject of this sketch immediately gave evidence of qualities of head and heart not usual in one so young. At the age of fifteen he was clearly and joyfully converted. He entered Indiana Asbury University at seventeen, and remained three years. He entered the North Indiana Conference in 1855. His Conference appointments were Elkhart and Bristol Circuits, La Grange, La Grove, North-street, now Trinity, Indianapolis, Anderson, Greenfield, Berry-street, Fort Wayne, and Anderson again. Here his health failed, and he was returned superannuated in 1868. In hope of regaining his strength, he was transferred to this Conference the same year, was made effective, and sent to Cotton-street, Fond du Lac. In 1869 he was appointed to Summerfield Church, Milwaukee, where he remained two years, when he received his last work at Bay View. In March 28, 1860, he was married to Miss Mary E., only daughter of I. N. Teublin, Esq., of Pendleton, Ind.

Brother Hill possessed some very rare traits of character. As a man, he appeared incapable of deception, and despised it in others. There was no gospel truth he did not dare to preach. He was warm-hearted and true in his friendships, and at the same time magnanimous to his enemies. A loving and lovable husband, father, and friend, he won the affection of all honest people. Intellectually, he was close, discriminating and comprehensive. His sermons were carefully prepared and written. He loved deeply the Church of his choice, but was truly catholic in his feelings and bearings to others. He was a successful minister, if the hundreds converted under his ministry are evidences of success. His work in securing the erection of the beautiful church in Anderson is evidence of his foresight and skill. His hold upon the people was wonderful; all classes mourned his death with a depth of grief seldom witnessed. On April 30, he was removing some ornamental trees from a wagon in front of the parsonage, when the horse sprang suddenly sidewise and threw him heavily to the ground; he fell, struck upon his head, ruptured a blood-vessel, and died in about twenty hours. He was entirely unconscious from the time of his injury. He had been unusually happy in his work of late; his Christian experience was very great and tender. His change was sudden, but glorious.

D. Donaldson, J. W. Latham, J. N. Elliott—3.

1. DAVID DONALDSON died in Salem, Iowa, July 21, 1872. He was born in Bloomfield, Ohio, March 22, 1828. In his eleventh year he moved with the family to Des Moines County, Iowa Territory, where he was converted under the ministry of the late Rev. I. I. Stewart, and joined the Church in his youth. He was licensed to exhort in 1851, and to preach in 1852. He was admitted on trial in this Conference in 1854. His appointments were Mount Vernon and Pioneer Grove Circuit, and Marysville. In 1856, by division, he fell into the Upper Iowa Conference, and was sent, in turn, to Iowa River Mission, Linwood, Pleasant Valley, Laporte, Greeley's Grove, and Linwood again. In 1865 he was transferred to this Conference and assigned to Brookville Circuit, where he was returned the next year, the name of the charge having been changed to Abingdon. The next three years he spent on Brighton Circuit. In 1870 he was removed to Salem Circuit, his last field of labor. In all these fields of duty he was in labors abundant, devoting all his energies to his work, and attaching himself by the strongest ties of confidence, esteem, and sympathy to the people whom he served. Social in his feelings, warm in his attachments, pleasant and sympathetic in his intercourse, capable and earnest in his ministry, consistent and devoted in his life, he attracted to himself the old and the young, and made hosts of friends both in and out of the Church. Death came suddenly. The brethren of his charge were engaged in enlarging and beautifying the parsonage, a work into which Brother Donaldson threw all his energies, and personally supervised. On Tuesday, July 16, he was seized with the disease of which he died. From the first it assumed a stubborn and malignant form, but no immediate danger was apprehended by himself. His affectionate wife having expressed to him her solicitude lest he should never recover, he answered: "Well, if it is so I have two homes. I have a pleasant home here. Since we have been together we have got along very pleasantly here. But I have another home up yonder, and when the Master wills I am ready to go." The next Sabbath he had purposed to administer the rite of baptism, and to receive a number of probationers into full connection. A large audience, uninformed of his extreme illness, gathered for the meeting. Meanwhile at home, burdened by disease, his mind wandered, and he imagined himself at the meeting, preached and exhorted, finally dismissing the people. "It is time to go now," said he, as if prophetically; "good people, let us leave." Soon after the quiet of death, with the shades of the evening, gathered around him, and his sanctified spirit escaped to his other home. He was a kind husband and father, a true friend and brother, and a godly minister of Christ.

2. JAMES W. LATHAM was born in Prince William County, Va., July 23, 1830, and died in Keosauqua, Iowa, January 1, 1872. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in Barbour County, West Va., in 1854, and was licensed to preach the same year, and admitted on trial in the West Virginia Conference. His appointments were Brandonville, West Union, Williamsport, and Williamstown. In 1858 he located, but was re-admitted into this Conference, and appointed successively to Vernon, Keosauqua, Albion, Chaplain First Iowa Cavalry two years, then Chaplain Third Iowa Cavalry, Keosauqua, one year, (1865,) since which time he has been supernumerary. In 1863 he represented Van Buren County in the Iowa Legislature. In 1868 and 1870 he was chosen Clerk of that County. During the past few years he could preach but little, but he was a most efficient Sabbath-school superintendent. He was always cheerful, genial, and kind, and had many friends. His testimony was clear, his faith strong, and gracious results have followed his labors. He rests in peace.

3. JOHN NELSON ELLIOTT was born in Belmont County, Ohio, December 8, 1852, and died in Richwoods, Jefferson County, Iowa, September 5, 1872. The opening of the Rebellion found him a stripling of nineteen years. Fired by the spirit of patriotism, he resolved upon entering the Union army. Meeting with opposition from his friends on account of his youth, he left his father's house, and made his way across the Ohio river into Virginia, where he enlisted in the First Regiment of the Virginia Union Cavalry in 1861. He was in both the battles of Bull Run, and in all the grand movements of M'Clellan and Grant around Richmond. He remained in the army until he was discharged after the return of peace. In his sixteenth year he had professed faith in Christ, but in the army his early vows were forgotten. In 1865, having moved to Iowa, he renewed his covenant with the Lord in a meeting held in Richwoods Church. All his energies of soul were now laid a sacrifice upon the altar of the Cross. Soon he heard an inward voice calling him to a higher work; and, to prepare himself, he entered Iowa Wesleyan University. In 1868 he was admitted into the Iowa Conference. In 1869 he was married to his late excellent wife, Miss Emma E. Green. His appointments were Brighton, Martinsburgh, Abingdon, and Birmingham. Shortly after his removal to this his last field of labor, the true nature of a chronic ailment, from which he had long suffered, was ascertained. Almost at once his wife and himself were seized with dangerous hemorrhage, and it was soon apparent that their work was nearly done. They attended the camp-meeting at Richwoods in August, but the excitement was too great. On Sabbath, September 1, in company with his wife, he partook, for the last time, of the Lord's Supper. During the service he expressed his strong confidence and abounding peace. A few minutes afterward his wife was again seized with bleeding at the lungs, during which she died. When they announced her departure to Brother Elliott he at first seemed shocked, and said, "Don't tell me that!" But soon resignation triumphed, and he gave expression to feelings of praise. Said he: "I am patiently, or rather, I may say, impatiently, waiting for the hour of my release to come. I want you to tell my brethren that I stand on a firm foundation. I have not the shadow of a fear or doubt on my mind with regard to my acceptance with God."

It proved to be, indeed, his last testimony. The next day he seemed oppressed with sleep. This was succeeded by delirium. Gradually the waters rose about him, and at length, about four P. M. of September 5, his spirit passed away. Strong in his attachments, fearless and independent in his spirit, plain and pointed in his address, he was a valued friend, a beloved pastor, a good and useful preacher. According to his request, a sermon was delivered at his funeral by Rev. E. H. Waring, with reference to the deaths of himself and wife, from the words, "I have fought a good fight."

John Horst.

JOHN HORST was born April 26, 1827, in Poppenhausen, Hesse-Darmstadt. In 1847 he emigrated to America. He remained six months in New York, then coming to Pittsburgh, Pa., he was almost immediately converted. He was soon made class-leader and exhorter, and afterward local preacher. In 1855 he joined the traveling ministry, and was stationed successively at Marietta, Marion Mission Nord, Bethlehem, Ohio; East Saginaw, Mich.; Poseiros Circuit, and Galion, Ohio. In 1863 he was transferred to Minnesota Conference, and sent to Le Suer Circuit, then to Washington Circuit, and afterward to St. Paul Station. Here his health failed, and in 1870 he was compelled to superannuate. From that time until his death, September 26, 1871, apparent recovery and renewed attacks of disease alternated. Toward the last his pain was intense. Throughout his illness he bore his sufferings with patience and submission to the will of God. He died in great peace, and living faith in his Redeemer.

Brother Horst, like all faithful workers, passed through trials. Many a night he spent in earnest prayer, wrestling with God for power and grace for the fulfillment of his office. All his hope and plea, and especially so in the last year of his life, was his blessed Saviour. He is at home with his Master. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare's past;
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last.

Jonathan W. Putnam, John Arnold, Lucius L. Rogers—3.

1. JONATHAN W. PUTNAM was born in Leyden, N. Y., July 31, 1815, and died in Middlesex, September 9, 1871. At the age of twelve he embraced the Saviour, became a true Christian, and was received into the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was licensed to exhort in 1835; in 1836 he received license to preach. He traveled four years in the New Jersey Conference, then went to the Wisconsin Conference, and remained with that body ten years, doing efficient service. In 1856 he was transferred to the East Genesee Conference, and stationed at East Palmyra. Afterward he was appointed, successively, to Tyrone, Catharine, Southport, Jackson, Canton, Prattsburgh, Dresden, and Middlesex. He had just commenced the work of the second year on this last charge, with good promise of success, when the Master suddenly released him from labor, and took him home. As a Christian, our brother was decided, earnest, spiritual, and progressive. Careful of his personal salvation, he lived in daily communion with the blessed Saviour, and rested sweetly in the "precious blood." His faith and love, his meekness and humility, were constantly growing and maturing. As a minister, he was true to his high calling. He was sound in Christian doctrine, and an able as well as judicious expounder of the word. Decidedly Methodistic in his views and sympathies, he loved Methodism in her forms and spirit, and was ever ready both to commend and defend the Church of his choice. He was diligent in pastoral work, "visiting from house to house," always caring for the "flock of God," and honestly endeavoring to win parents and children for Jesus; nor did he labor in vain. As a citizen, he was patriotic, and maintained, both in word and deed, the interests of our common country. As husband and father, he was affectionate and devoted, always solicitous for the well-being of his family. During the summer months of 1871 there were indications of failing health. His usual labor, however, was performed, his piety deepened, his religious zeal burned with a purer flame, his love for souls, for the Church, and the Lord Jesus, rose to a higher plane, and at the last he was moving nearer to his risen Lord. His last Sabbath was precious to him, and profitable to his people. He was prepared for the succeeding Sunday, but the messenger came suddenly on Saturday at six P. M., and at eight P. M. his freed spirit passed to the Church triumphant. Our dear friend and brother has left us for his place and inheritance among the bloodwashed and crowned multitude, gathering from every land and all the ages, on the evergreen shore, leaving us the legacy of a Christian character and noble life.

2. JOHN ARNOLD died near Delta, N. Y., April 23, 1872, in the ninety-second year of his age. He was born in Great Barrington, Mass., and was converted at the age of sixteen years. Some time subsequent to this he was married to Miss Anna Reynolds, who died in 1812. In 1815 he joined the Genesee Conference, and was appointed to St. Lawrence Circuit. After this he served the following charges, namely: Litchfield, Cortland, Broome, Marcellus, Chenango, Batavia. While on the latter charge he was married to Miss Joanna Snow, who died some years ago. After his last marriage he served the following charges: Orangeville, Rushford, Geneseo, Bath, Westford, and Sharon. In 1830, by the division of the Conference, he became a member of the Oneida Conference, and was reappointed to Sharon. In 1831 he was again appointed to Litchfield. He there became superannuated, and remained so until his death, the prolonged period of forty-one years. During these years he is known to have been active and useful. He evidently, to his latest hour, had a burning zeal to bring souls to Christ and to advance the Church in holiness. He manifested also a peculiar sweetness of spirit and love for the Church. He seemed to breathe the atmosphere of heaven. His last presence at Conference was at Cortlandville last spring, but a few weeks before his death. He there seemed ripened for his heavenly inheritance. On his way from Conference he was seized with his last illness, and soon after fell asleep in Jesus at the residence of his son, Fletcher Arnold, near Delta, N. Y., having spent nearly seventy-five years in the service of God.

3. LUCIUS L. ROGERS died at Canastota, April 22, 1872, in the seventy-first year of his age. He was a native of Litchfield, Herkimer County, N. Y. Quite early in life he received Christ and enjoyed a measure of the light of pardon, but it was not permanent. At the age of twenty-one he made a new dedication to God, and became at that time a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. His experience now was clear and definite, and his whole Christian life thereafter steady and positive. His first license to preach was given him when he was about twenty-four years of age. He was received on trial in the Oneida Conference in 1831, and appointed to the old Otsego Circuit. This charge he served two years, at the end of which he was received into full connection and appointed to North Manlius, after which he was appointed pastor of the following charges: Russia, Herkimer, Litchfield, Westmoreland, Augusta, Andover, Sangerfield, Augusta again, Springfield, Canajoharie, Exeter, Augusta the third time, Verona, Brookfield, Pompey, Woodstock, Cardiff, Clarkville. He pursued the ministerial calling because he felt that necessity was laid upon him, and because his heart was richly imbued with a love for the work and zeal for souls. His unremitting ardor often took him beyond his strength, and twice, in consequence of failure of health, he held a superannuated relation for a couple of years. His last year of effective work was in 1863. His labors, though not altogether revivalistic in character, and productive of large numbers of conversions in brief periods of time, were successful both in winning souls and establishing and building up the Church. His successes were more from direct and unremitting effort than from any thing flashing or particularly enthusiastic. Kind and faithful in all his social and family relations, his surviving wife and children rise up to do him honor. He was devout and uniform as a Christian, clear and practical as a preacher, always striving to do his hearers good rather than to captivate and merely please. He was careful and prudent in administration, judicious in council, and vigilant and kind in his pastoral oversight. During the years of his last superannuation, most of which were spent at Canastota, the place of his death, he exhibited those traits of fidelity to truth and the cause of the Lord which had appeared elsewhere. It is said he was scarcely absent from a Thursday evening prayer-meeting during the whole eight or nine years of his residence in that place. The attack of paralysis which produced his death left no opportunity for those words of triumph God gives to some, but we know the triumph was in his heart. Such a life, one of such sterling faith in Christ, of unswerving adherence to the right and fidelity in the cause of pure religion, is always crowned with an abundant entrance to the kingdom above; whither, then, we bend our eye and feet to find and meet our brother. Glory-crowned and robed in light, he waits now to welcome those who follow after.

C. Arnold, E. G. Falconer, W. H. Taylor, J. B. Houts—4.

1. CHRISTIAN ARNOLD was born in Chester County, Pa., February 21, 1815, and was converted and joined the Church in the seventeenth year of his age. He joined this Conference in 1848, and filled the following appointments: Sullivan Circuit, Danville, New Albany, Urbana, Edgar, Monticello, Moawequa, Gerard, Middletown, M'Lean, Mount Pleasant, Le Roy, Old Town, Lincoln Circuit, and Athens. He was a supernumerary in 1865 and 1866, and from 1869 till his death, which occurred near Moawequa, Ill., April 19, 1872.

Brother Arnold's sickness lasted a month, during which time he was very happy in Jesus, and exhorted all around him to meet him in heaven. He has gone to join the Church of the First-born, and to swell the music of the heavenly choir.

2. ENOCH G. FALCONER died in Decatur, Ill., August 23, 1872. He was born in Frederick County, Md., January 30, 1810. His father's house was the home of Methodist preachers. He was converted in his nineteenth year, and was zealous as a member and efficient as a class-leader and exhorter for years. He removed to Macon County, Ill., in 1839. In 1840 he was received into this Conference, and appointed to Washington Circuit, then to Petersburgh, Clinton, Carlinville, Waterloo, and Greenville Circuits, and Mount Carmel Station. In 1848 failing health compelled him to superannuate. He suffered much in the later years of his life, but with increased patience and resignation to the will of God. Though sharing in the infirmities of humanity, his Christian experience showed an ever-increasing realization of the richness and fullness of the mediatorial provision as his only hope and plea. To social claims there was a delicate and appreciative regard, both as the considerate husband and father; the fast friend and true patriot, never forgetting his country. As a minister he was clear in doctrine, sound in experience, practical and efficient in labors, emphatically teaching and warning every man, so as to present them perfect in Christ Jesus.

3. WM. H. TAYLOR was born in Vermont, August 27, 1800. In 1822 he moved to Illinois and settled near Rushville. Three years afterward he professed religion, and became a member of the first class organized between the Illinois and Mississippi rivers. In 1831 he was licensed to preach. In 1836 he was received on trial in this Conference, and appointed consecutively to Pittsfield, Carthage, Pulaski, and Fort Madison, Iowa. At the close of this year, having fallen by division into the Rock River Conference, he located. Two years afterward he was re-admitted into this Conference and appointed the second time to Pulaski, then to Columbus Circuit, Griggsville Circuit, Mount Carmel District, and Agency of the American Bible Society. During his Agency, by division of the work, he became a member of the Southern Illinois Conference. In 1854 he was appointed to Collinsville, then to Mount Vernon Circuit, and Hickory Hill. At the close of the year he was again transferred to this Conference, and appointed to Athens, Taylorville, Irving, Perry Circuit, Barry, Littleton, Pulaski Circuit again, Lynnville, Manchester, and finally Mount Sterling. In 1870 he was granted a superannuated relation, but nevertheless supplied the work at Mount Sterling. In the fall of 1871 he removed to his old home at Mount Vernon, from which, after a short stay of six months, he departed (April 3, 1872) for his eternal home in the heavens. In his last illness he was abundantly sustained by Divine grace, and cheered by the prospect of his heavenly inheritance.

Brother Taylor was a man of strong purposes and much decision of character; a loving husband and a kind father, a sterling preacher, a faithful pastor, and a great lover and faithful servant of the Church of God.

4. JAMES B. HOUTS was born in Kentucky, May 31, 1817, and died in Myersville, Ill., November 11, 1871. He was converted in Scott County, Mo., in September, 1832, and was received on trial in this Conference in 1839. From this time he labored faithfully until taken to his reward, filling successively the following charges: Carthage, Kankakee, Washington, Whitehall, Nashville, Waterloo, Greenville, Mount Sterling, Bay Creek, Barry, Columbus, Taylorville, Petersburgh, Sangamon, Concord, Lynnville, Beardstown, Whitehall, Chatham, Lincoln, Dawson, Monticello, Mount Pulaski, Milton, Indianola, Myersville, at which latter place he literally laid down his body with his charge, "and ceased at once to work and live." He had suffered for some time with disease of the heart, and, in justice to himself, ought to have accepted a superannuated relation at our last Conference, but his heart yearned to seek and save the lost. Some time before his decease, when recovering from a sinking spell enough to converse, he said, "I have never before had such bright visions of glory. I am deeply afflicted, but wonderfully sustained. I am nearing the river, and will soon be over." The day before his death, when the physician entered the room and found Sister Houts engaged in prayer with her dying husband, he spoke of the excitement injuring him, but Brother Houts responded promptly, "No, doctor, it does not. In coming here to preach Christ, I have followed no cunningly-devised fables; I would not dare pray the Lord to prolong my life one moment longer than it is his will. Glory to God for a religion that sustains under all circumstances! I am in deep water, but not without a pilot." He was a faithful minister and an excellent singer, and his sojourn here seems now in memory a long, sweet thanksgiving hymn. Life was ebbing fast, and they sang, at his request, until emotion choked their utterance, when he took up the last stanza, and sang,

"Then, in a nobler, sweeter song,
I'll sing thy power to save;
When this poor lisping, stammering tongue
Lies silent in the grave."

Thus ended the useful, irreproachable life of one who had just entered on his thirty-third year of ministerial labor. But few among us could apply and enforce Gospel truth as could he. Alas! how few could equal his power with God in prayer! God has taken him.

J. J. Richardson, W. H. Corrington, J. S. Morrison—3.

1. JAS. J. RICHARDSON was born in Tennessee in 1808, and died in Marion County, Ill., September 21, 1872. He experienced religion in 1822; was married to Miss Elizabeth Willey in 1826, and the next year emigrated to Illinois and settled in Marion County. The first class-meeting in the county was organized in his cabin, which soon became one of the regular Methodist preaching-places. He was admitted on trial in the Illinois Conference in 1837. We find him the Presiding Elder of Salem District, in this Conference, from 1852 to 1856. Suffering in health, he then became superannuated, which relation he sustained until 1859, when he was made effective and appointed to Johnsonville Circuit; the next year he went to Mount Erie, then to Central City. In 1862 he was again superannuated. In 1865 he was appointed to Spring Garden Circuit, which he served three years; he then traveled the Benton Circuit one year, at the close of which the active labor of his life ceased.

Brother Richardson was a characteristic pioneer preacher—plain, practical, and earnest—and a prudent disciplinarian. He was a positive man—a man of convictions. He accepted the doctrines and discipline of the Methodist Episcopal Church because he believed them to be right. Truth was every thing to him. During his last illness he remarked: "I have been reviewing the whole ground, and I have no changes to make, either in doctrine or practice, only I would try to be more faithful." His dying message was in these words: "Tell the brethren of the Conference that it is all right with me. I love every body." His death was triumphant.

2. W. H. CORRINGTON was born of godly parentage in Kentucky in 1826, and died in Belleville, Ill., June 6, 1872. With his father's family he came to Greene County, Ill., when he was four years old. In 1847 he entered M'Kendree College. While a student he gave his heart to Jesus. He graduated in the Scientific Course in 1849, and was engaged soon after as tutor in the college. He contemplated soon entering the legal profession, but acted for awhile as the Financial Agent of M'Kendree College. As a teacher he labored in Chester, in Mount Carmel, in Rockford, and elsewhere, and was truly successful in his calling. In 1853 he married Miss Maria Blackwell, who died thirteen months afterward. The same year he became President of the Southern Illinois Female College at Salem, a position he faithfully held for eight years. His pupils and graduates are scattered in the region all around, and do him honor. January 30, 1857, he married Miss Mary A. Smith, of Jerseyville. In 1861, feeling called to the work of the ministry, he gave himself entirely thereto. He was received on trial in this Conference, and was returned as President of the Female College. In 1862 he was stationed at Vandalia, where he remained two years, at the close of which term he again resumed the presidency of the College. Afterward he was stationed at Flora and Belleville, and, in 1870, he was made Presiding Elder of the Lebanon District, a charge which he resigned but a few weeks before his death. His sickness was painful and long-continued. For more than a year his health was failing, but such was his energy and hope that he gave up only a short time before his death. In all the pair of dissolving nature he was patient and joyful. He often spoke of his faith in Christ, and of his trust in the certainty of a better life.

Brother Corrington was a man of sound sense and excellent judgment, rather than brilliant genius. His life was pure. His words were few and choice, but plain and practical. His sermons were characterized by clearness and truthfulness more than by flashes of eloquence; but his career as a minister was an undoubted success.

3. JONAS S. MORRISON was born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., in 1836; was converted at the age of sixteen, and was licensed to preach and joined this Conference in 1857. His appointments were Collinsville Circuit, Union-street, Alton City, Chester, Gillespie, Litchfield, Brighton, Highland, Carlyle, Greenville, Gillespie, Shipman, and lastly Alton District. Returning home sick from Conference, he continued so until October, 1871, when he fell asleep in Jesus. His last hours were characteristic. He said but little besides "You know I am well prepared. The Lord 'restoreth my soul; he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name's sake.'" These few words tell the story of his triumph.

Brother Morrison's ministerial career, extending through fourteen years, was a glorious success. He was not demonstrative, and to one not acquainted with his peculiarities he would seem devoid of ardent attachments. He was peculiarly sincere, and disdained all pretension. He did not make large promises, but did large things. His kind offices could not be bought, but to the worthy they were freely given; and he was never without pity, even for those he could not commend. The traits of his character were strongly marked. As a Christian and a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ he exemplified the purity of the one and the fidelity of the other. He rather loved than professed religion, and proved his ministry by the practical sympathy which carries the consolations of religion to the abodes of poverty, of sickness, and of bereavement. His pulpit ministrations were characterized by clearness, by fidelity to the Scriptures, by an adaptation of the truth to his hearers, and by a manner which demonstrated his own interest in his theme. He was endowed by nature with a vigorous mind, and seemed to gather knowledge by intuition. He read men as well as books, and possessed a vivid and comprehensive impression of living facts and a power to use them. He was a kind husband and an anxious father. In that heart burdened with care there was an inner sanctuary where those dependent upon him found shelter and safety. In him all was consecrated to the work his Master gave him to do, and many will arise and call him blessed.

APPENDIX.

SOUTH CAROLINA CONFERENCE.

[Not received in time for insertion in its proper place.]

T. W. LEWIS was born in Royalstown, Mass., August 6, 1825, and died of yellow fever in Charleston, S. C., September 30, 1871. His father was a leading member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and his eldest brother, Rev. J. W. Lewis, has been for many years one of the efficient members of the New England Conference. From his childhood Brother Lewis was remarkable for activity and force of character. He never lacked enterprise to begin a work, and seldom failed to accomplish it. His benevolent and social qualities were early developed. In early life he was fond of pleasure, and not studiously inclined; but in his seventeenth year circumstances led him to loathe his life of folly. He tried the realities of the Christian religion, and found true pleasure and a more congenial scope for the elastic and generous impulses of his nature. This changed the whole current of his life; he immediately took to his books, improved his time, and religion became to him ever after a joyous reality, and the book of his Master the delight of his heart. In the spring of 1842 he joined the Methodist Episcopal Church in Fitchburgh, Mass. He prepared for college at Wilbraham, and subsequently entered Union College, one year in advance. In 1849 he joined the New England Conference, and was stationed consecutively at Leicester, Hopkinton, Clinton, Marlborough, Waltham, Bennington-street, East Boston, Hopkinton, Laurel-street, and Worcester. In 1862, under an appointment from Bishop Janes, he came to South Carolina. Before the opening of Charleston he labored in Beaufort, establishing a Church there, and traveled quite extensively in Florida, doing valuable service for our cause. He entered Charleston at its first opening, and remained there during the summer of 1865, laboring as far as in his power to supply the means of grace to the multitudes who were left as sheep without a shepherd. When the late Bishop Baker sent him reinforcements he entered upon the toilsome and difficult work of organizing Churches in the country. At this time the railroads of the State were sadly out of repair, and some of them had been suspended, and this rendered uncertain the means of travel and subjected him frequently to great expense and inconvenience. He was obliged, to use his own term, to travel, not merely on horseback, but "footback," with carpet-bag in hand; but, notwithstanding these disadvantages, he traveled from the seaboard to the mountains, organizing Churches in Greenville County, two hundred and seventy-five miles from Charleston. He traveled upon the Charleston District for three years following the organization of this Conference, and was then placed in charge of the Churches of Charleston, in which he was continued until the close of his earthly labors. When urged to leave the city on the approach of the sickly season he replied that he felt it his duty to remain, and that he should rather do his duty and die than shirk and live. In this he exhibited that devotion to his work that characterized his labors. It would seem that Providence had been kindly preparing him for the great change he was soon to experience. When he returned from the last session of this Conference to his third year of pastoral labor in the city he remarked that he was going to preach that year as he had never done before, and those who heard him were made to feel that his resolution was verified in the fresh zeal and pathos that glowed in his pulpit efforts. It was only at the earnest entreaty of his leading brethren that Mr. Lewis could be persuaded to leave Charleston, even for a short period, while the fatal fever was raging. They felt that his life was too precious to them and the Church to be thus periled by this exposure to malady; but his removal was too late to accomplish the object sought. The first attack of the fever was not so violent as in ordinary cases, and from this he seemed, in due time, partially to recover; but his system had been too thoroughly depleted of vital force for a final rally from the attack. He sank under the influence of a fatal relapse. When nearing the margin of the cold river he seemed tranquil and composed. The firm basis of his immortal hope was unmoved, and he was heard to say, "Still on the Rock." Some of those sweet hymns he sang so often in life seemed more than ever beautiful and precious to him in death, and he joined in singing "Rock of Ages," "Forever here my rest shall be," etc., after which he repeated, "Wash me, and make me thus thine own." He wanted his friends to sing "When I survey the wondrous cross," saying it was his favorite hymn, and, pointing upward, he asked, "Do you not see the cross?" He left his love for many of his friends. He remembered the name of Claflin, sending his love to the Governor, with a request that he would continue to aid the colored people. He referred affectionately to the city Churches he had been serving as pastor, and when trying in broken terms to express his wishes, his wife said, "Shall I tell them that you want them to hold together, to love one another, and try and carry out the principles you have taught them?" "Yes, yes; just that," he replied. His deeply afflicted widow, who was by his side all through the trying scenes of those last hours, says: "I cannot tell all the precious little words he said. It all seemed that he was resting in such sweet peace in the everlasting Arms. His hands were folded, and a sweet smile on his face. His mind seemed to dwell on the Saviour's love, and to trust him fully, which I know he did. In short," she says, "it was a sweet death-bed scene, and a privilege to be there, even though our hearts were well-nigh breaking. It was quite on the verge of heaven. He kept saying over the sweetest name on mortal tongue, 'Jesus, Jesus, Jesus.' Then we sang 'How sweet the name of Jesus.' He joined, but caught at the verse 'Dear Name, the Rock on which I build;' and until he could speak no more, he kept talking about the Rock. A few moments before he ceased breathing he revived, looking around upon us, and smiled more sweetly, and passed from us forever." Thus sank to rest one of God's laborers; thus a star of earth, made luminous by grace, has not waned in darkness, but disappeared amid the brighter radiance of heaven. Few graves have ever been moistened with a richer tribute of tears than the turf that covers the mortal remains of our departed brother. No such funeral procession ever before wended its way to the famed Magnolia Cemetery. The thousands who joined in that solemn march were prompted by true affection for the dead. It was the funeral procession of grief-smitten mourners, who gave the involuntary offerings of tears and tender recollections which wealth could never purchase nor the making up of pretended sorrow ever imitate.

O may we triumph so,
When all our warfare's past;
And, dying, find our latest foe
Under our feet at last.

Memoir of Bishop Baker.

Osmon Cleander Baker, a Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, was born in Marlow, N. H., July 30, 1812, and died in Concord, N. H., December 20, 1871, aged fifty-nine years.

He was favored in his parentage, being the youngest child of Dr. Isaac Baker, a man noted for his intelligence and integrity, and of a mother endowed with unusual womanly excellences. Both were devoted members of the Methodist Church. At the age of fifteen he was placed in the Wilbraham Academy, where, soon after, he was converted, and received into the Church by Dr. Fisk, then Principal of the School. When seventeen years of age he was licensed as an Exhorter. In 1830 he entered the Wesleyan University, and passed successfully through three years of its course of study. Ill health then compelled his withdrawal. While in College he was licensed as a Local Preacher, and labored diligently in that office as opportunity offered. In 1834 he became a teacher in the Seminary at Newbury, Vt., and in 1839 the Principal. During ten years of service in these positions he commanded in an unusual degree the confidence and love both of his pupils and of their parents. In 1844, having resigned the Principalship, he was appointed Pastor of the Church in Rochester, N. H., and in 1845 of the Church in Manchester, N. H., both Charges of the New Hampshire and Vermont Conferences. In 1846, at the unanimous request of the preachers, he was made Presiding Elder of the Dover District, but after a year accepted a Professorship in the Biblical Institute at Concord, N. H., in which city he thenceforth resided till his death. In 1852 he was elected to the Episcopacy, and for fourteen years discharged with exemplary diligence and success the varied and onerous duties of this high office. In June, 1866, while journeying to the Colorado Conference, he was arrested by paralysis; but with great difficulty he reached his destination, and was able to examine and ordain the Preachers in his room. His return was in weakness and in pain, and he reached home in a state of extreme exhaustion; but by rest he so far improved as to be able for two years more to preside at Annual Conferences, and to attend the annual gathering of the Bishops. But the end of his labor drew on: his strength abated, his step faltered, his voice failed. Unable to take audible part in the services of the sanctuary, and reaching them with difficulty by the assistance of friends, he continued to enjoy them for some years longer, finding the Gospel which he had preached to others "the strength of his failing flesh and heart." His last Sabbath sanctuary service at length came, and on returning from it he fell helpless at the threshold of his home. Though revived after a day or two so as to walk a few steps, the end was at hand. On December 8, 1871, the fatal blow fell, under which he lingered till December 20, when in the presence of his family and of ministering brethren he sweetly fell asleep.

In his domestic relations Bishop Baker was eminently happy. He was married in 1834 to Miss Mehitable Perley, the daughter of pious and intelligent Methodists. Of her it is sufficient to say that she was worthy of her husband. Three beautiful children were taken from them by death in early childhood. Two daughters survived their father; but one of them—the amiable and accomplished wife of the Rev. E. T. Pitcher—was in a few weeks laid by his side in the tomb. "Lovely and pleasant in their lives, in their death they were not divided." In his home Bishop Baker beautifully exhibited the excellences of his character, and found much of his happiness and of his strength for public service.

In estimating his abilities and character, prominence must be given to their regularity and symmetry. No faculty of his intellect was conspicuous for either its strength or its weakness. His temperament was even and quiet. With readiness of apprehension, soundness of judgment, retentiveness of memory, and a somewhat deficient imagination, he combined calmness, gentleness, simplicity of purpose, firm religious convictions, and an all-controlling conscientiousness. He did nothing ostentatiously or impetuously, or with eccentricity. As a teacher, he was assiduous, full of material, and clear. As a preacher, he ascended no lofty height of eloquence, but in well-chosen words, with a persuasive manner, and often with a divine unction, he unfolded the testimony of the Lord. As a Bishop, he was painstaking, impartial, judicious, and his administration was marked by a thorough knowledge of the Constitution and Laws of the Church. His work on the Discipline displays all these characteristics in an eminent degree. None knew him but to love and respect him. He walked with God. In him was the mind which was also in Christ Jesus. He fulfilled his course. He rests from his labor, and his works do follow him.

NOTE.—The Districts marked (*) report for half a year only. This explains why but little or no Missionary money is credited to them. It should also be stated that the Districts comprising the present Central New York Conference are so modified by the action of the General Conference that it makes it exceedingly difficult to ascertain whether the exhibit of the Church within the present territory of the Conference is better or worse than last year. The difficulty is also increased from the fact that one half of the Conference reports for six and the other half for fourteen months.

GEORGE VAN ALSTYNE, Statistical Secretary of the Conference.

The Bishops at their late meeting arranged for the Episcopal Visitation of our Foreign Missions as follows:

1. Bishop Bowman was appointed to visit our Mission in South America in the summer of 1873.

2. Bishop Harris was appointed to visit the missions of our Church in Asia and Europe. It is expected that he will leave San Francisco early in the coming summer, going thence to Japan, China, and India, presiding at the session of the India Conference in January, 1874; thence, by the way of Bombay, Constantinople, and Italy, to Western Europe, presiding in the Mission Conference of Germany and Switzerland at its session of 1874; and thence to the Irish and British Conferences as one of the delegates to those bodies from the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

3. Bishop Foster was appointed to visit our missions in Europe during the coming summer, and preside in the Mission Conference of Germany and Switzerland at its session of 1873.

4. Bishop Haven was appointed to visit Mexico during the current winter, to supervise the planting of our mission in that country.
